GULICK GETS PERMIT TO OPERATE BUS LINE

Lutheran Church Sells Property SELECTS NEW LOCATION ON WHICH TO BUILD GLENDALE SCHOOLS LEAD STATE

Dr. T. P. Noehle Purchaser Of Land; Religious Home
To Be on S. Kenwood

ANOTHER step occurred this week in the proceedings, which have been under way quietly for some time, to erect a new and much larger First Lutheran church in Glendale.

W. B. Kelly, realtor, of 105 West Colorado street, this morning announced the sale of the church's property on the northwest corner of Harvard and Maryland streets. This has a depth of fifty-two feet on Maryland avenue and a frontage of 120 feet on Harvard street. Owing to its closeness to the business district, it is expected to increase in value rapidly.

Dr. T. P. Noehle of 215 West Elk street, who has a dental office in the Monarch building at 206 South Brand boulevard, will be the new owner of the property as soon as the deal comes out of escrow. He is a recent arrival from Kenosha, Wis., and is planning to re-invest in California.

The First Lutheran church council a few months ago purchased a site at 231 South Kenwood street for its new church.

New Church Plans
Plans for the new religious plant have been prepared and are now almost ready for acceptance. They provide for the expenditure of approximately $40,000 for a new church, a complete and modern Sunday school department, large social quarters in the basement and a six-room parish house.

Architecture probably will be of the Spanish type. It is likely that the church, which will be two stories in height, will extend to the sidewalk, while the Sunday school department and parish house, which will be one story in height, will be set back to permit the front of this portion of the property to be improved with a lawn.

The new site has a frontage of 100 feet on the west side of Kenwood street and a depth of 150 feet to a twenty-foot alley.

Membership Grows
"The Lutheran outlook in Glendale is very promising," said Dr. H. C. Funk this morning. "Our present location is too small."

The membership of the church now is about 150. The present auditorium, which is badly in need of repair, has a total capacity of only 200. The new auditorium will seat at least 500 worshippers. "Immediate action will be taken on the plans," remarked Dr. Funk, who has been pastor of the local church for the past two years. "We are getting right to work."

The church council consists of the following members: Dr. H. C. Funk, president; F. J. Bowman, 342 West Elk street; H. Coleman, 507 Alexander street; Paul A. Hoffman, 327 North Maryland avenue; H. A. Stolper, Burbank; H. H. Plaster, 1124 East California avenue; Carl Anderson, 107 South Isabel street; T. M. Tolander, 609 North Jackson street, and O. W. Sherrick, 907 East Lomita avenue.

Can't Eat Home or Speak to Wife But He May Sleep There

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—Solomon N. Ades, wealthy lace importer, may sleep at home—but that is all.

He may not eat there and he must not speak to his wife.

He can speak to his three children but should a question regarding their welfare arise, he must consult his wife through a third person. This unique court order by Superior Judge Mogan was in effect today as a result of counter divorce actions in the Ades family and charges by Mrs. Ades that her husband's conduct since she filed her suit had been obnoxious.

AUTO CAMPS NEED CLEAN UP, CLAIM

City Health Department Is Preparing Ordinance to Force Regulation

Strict regulation of auto camp grounds within the city limits of Glendale was forecast at a meeting of the City Council last night when delegates from the San Fernando Boulevard Improvement Association and the civic committee of the Chamber of Commerce appear and urged action that will, it was declared, "clean up the camp grounds and keep up the high standard of citizenship of Glendale." Property owners in the vicinity of the camp grounds have also appealed to the council to pass an ordinance that will put more strict regulations on the camp grounds.

Municipal Grounds
Incidentally, during the discussion, it was brought out that the civic committee of the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations in the city are in favor of a municipal camp ground.

The city's health department is now preparing a form of ordinance to regulate the camp ground and copies, it is announced, will be furnished to interested individuals and organizations.

In the meantime, it is stated at the city hall that camp ground owners have secured attorneys and if the ordinance as submitted proves too "drastic" it will be fought.

Inventor, Despondent, Ends His Own Life

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—His hand still gripping the gun which had ended his life last August, Ernest Schade, 65 an inventor, was found dead today in his quarters at the Western Pacific hotel by G. H. Von Der Maden, proprietor.

Schade, Von Der Maden explained, had leased three rooms for a year. As his habits were irregular, no one paid any attention when he was not seen for months. August of last year was the last time anyone talked with the recluse.

ATTENDANCE RECORD IS SMASHED

State Superintendent's Report Proves This City Is Growing Rapidly

GLENDALE leads all communities of California in increased elementary school attendance. Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, has revealed this fact at the state capital in his biennial report to the state legislature.

The daily elementary school attendance in Glendale is set down as having increased 24.4 per cent since the last similar report two years ago.

Orange county showed the greatest increase in school enrollment in the state with 12.5 per cent. Los Angeles county came next with 12.1 per cent.

The other three counties among the five highest are Sierra, Mono and Trinity, all mining counties. Their increase in population is regarded as indicating a rejuvenation of mining activities in California.

Cost of Education
Los Angeles county, among the six most populous counties in the state, ranks second in the annual cost per pupil of public instruction.

The figure of $87.96 for this county is exceeded only by $92.83 by Sacramento county.

California has licensed a total of 264 foreign language teachers during the past two years, according to this report. Of the total number of teachers certified to the language schools, 181 were Japanese, 77 special teachers and six German.

Foster Informs Jury
He's for Dictatorship

ST JOSEPH, Mo., March 30.—In a calm voice no louder than might be heard in a drowsy drawing room, William Z. Foster this afternoon told the jury trying him on a syndicalism charge how he thinks the present government should be overthrown for "a dictatorship of the workers."

Foster said such a government had been his objective for ten years, "before Lenin was ever heard of." When the prosecution asked if he thought the government should be patterned after the dictatorship of the Russian proletariat, the witness replied: "Not necessarily."

"You are not satisfied with the present social and economic conditions of the United States today?" "I think the only way conditions can be changed," Foster answered, "is for the workers and farmers to take charge of the government and operate the industries for the benefit of the broad masses of the working people."

"The only development you know of the program would be the soviet form of government?" "Yes."

Pacific Fleet Due in L. A. Harbor April 11

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—The Pacific fleet which has been engaged with the Atlantic fleet in spring maneuvers off Panama, is due in Los Angeles harbor April 11, it was announced today. The fleet will begin tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock. Admiral H. P. Jones, on the Pennsylvania, will arrive later than the main squadron, it was stated.

During the maneuvers the obsolete battleship Iowa was sunk by gunfire from other vessels during a mimic battle. The sinking was witnessed and participated in by Admiral Benjamin F. Hutchinson, who commanded the vessel while she was used during the world war in European waters.

AGAINST LIQUOR TRADE

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The shipping board has the full approval of the department of justice in making buyers of American ships promise not to use the vessels to import liquor into the United States, it was learned officially today.

AIRSHIPS MAY AID SEARCH FOR BOYS

Bloodhounds, Too, Urged In Hope of Discovering Trace to Lads

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., March 30.—Preparation of a new search with airplanes and bloodhounds in the mountain country near here and extension of the search to all parts of the state today featured developments in the effort to find Dicky Jensen, 6, and Dean Meecham, 4, who disappeared from their homes here last Saturday.

A group of citizens met today to discuss the possibility of employing airplanes with observers and mountaineer posses, aided with bloodhounds, to go higher into the mountains, past the territory that has already been searched. The theory for the new search is that the boys were kidnapped and taken to a secret mountain retreat, where they are being held.

Hope Is Renewed
Officers in charge of the hunt are said to be in possession of new information that might lead to the finding of the youngsters, but what this information is was not revealed.

Hope of finding the boys was renewed today by the statement of Y. Aki, Japanese grocer, who said the boys had visited his store about 7 o'clock last Wednesday night.

One Killed, Another Wounded in Holdup

NEW YORK, March 30.—One man was killed and another was wounded during a bold holdup in Long Island City at noon today. The dead man is John Wallace, paymaster for the John H. Duncan Contracting company of Brooklyn, and the wounded man is Martin Cain, vice president of the concern.

The men were conveying a large sum of money when they were attacked by bandits. The robbers obtained $4000, but overlooked $6000 that was in the care of a third paymaster.

Chilly Easter For Eastern States But Nice In Southland

WASHINGTON, March 30.—It will be a chilly Easter. The United States weather bureau today predicted "unseasonably cold weather" for Sunday in all states east of the Mississippi, except Florida.

Despite the extreme cold, however, the weather will be "generally fair."

The weather bureau declined to forecast today for states west of the Mississippi.

The weather man in southern California predicts nice Easter weather—and all Glendale is preparing to go to church.

Building Falls; One Dead, Several Hurt

WASHINGTON, March 30.—At least one person was killed, several others are believed buried in the wreckage and twelve were injured when a five story building near the criminal courts building collapsed this afternoon.

The building knocked off the roof of the adjoining structure when it collapsed. Four of the injured were taken to a hospital. Firemen are searching the debris for other bodies of dead or injured.

Twelve persons are believed to be still buried in the wreckage. The crash came when one of the walls collapsed carrying the entire building down with it.

BURNED TO DEATH

ALTOONA, Pa., March 30.—Two children, George Ridneck, 4, and Mary, his sister, 2, were burned to death early today when fire destroyed three houses at Rosebud, a mining village. The children were son and daughter of August Ridneck, a miner.

ISSUES FIRE WARNING

SACRAMENTO, March 30.—"The drought of the past month has greatly increased the fire hazard and owners of timber land should take unusual precautions to guard against fire," said a warning issued today by State Forester M. B. Pratt.

SEVEN DEAD 14 INJURED IN CRASH

Train Strikes Automobile, Carrying Wrecked Car
More Than Block

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 30.—At least seven persons were killed and not less than fourteen persons were injured today when Big Four passenger train No. 11, en route to this city from Cleveland, struck an automobile at Oakland Park avenue, North Columbus.

The dead are:
Mrs. Frank S. Hemminger, 27, Columbus.

Robert Hemminger, 5, and an infant son of Mrs. Hemminger.

Horace Holbrook, Warren, Ohio, publisher.

J. C. Lee, Cleveland, fireman.

Earl Wilson, fireman, Columbus.

Two unidentified.
Search is being made through the wreckage for the bodies of one or two other persons thought to have been killed.

Meet Instant Death
Mrs. Hemminger, wife of a local attorney, and her two children were in the automobile. They were instantly killed. It is thought that a brother of Mrs. Hemminger was in the automobile and that his body may be in the wreckage.

The train because of being late, is said to have been running at a rate of seventy miles an hour.

The wrecked machine was carried a block on the engine when the tender and four sleeping coaches were overturned.

LENINE NO BETTER
MOSCOW, March 30.—Nicolai made no progress toward recovery. Lenin is holding his own, but has very little left to live, it was announced today. The bulletin said his condition was unchanged.

SEIZE BEER TRAIN

DORTMUND, March 30.—French troops today occupied the railway stations at Luettringhausen, Hoerde and Appelerbeck, seizing 150 railway cars, part of which were laden with beer.

CITY COUNCIL HAS POWER TO REVOKE IF SYSTEM NOT RUNNING IN NINETY DAYS

Cannot Dispose Right To Operate Without Majority Consent From Municipality, It Is Agreed

PERMISSION to operate a bus line on a number of streets in Glendale was last night granted to C. D. Gulick by the City Council, the permit being issued as asked for in his amended application, given in full elsewhere in The Evening News, with the additional understanding that if Mr. Gulick does not have the transportation system in operation within ninety days the City Council has the right to revoke his permit and with the further understanding that he cannot dispose of the permit without consent of a majority of the councilmen.

Councilman Sam Davis made the motion granting the permit, with its two modifications, and Councilman A. H. Lapham seconded it. The motion prevailed with their votes and that of Mayor Spencer Robinson. Councilman Dwight W. Stephenson did not vote for the reason that the law firm of which he is a member, represents Mr. Gulick. Councilman C. E. Kimlin was not present. However, he sent a letter to the council urging the permit be granted and which also suggested the two modifications attached to the permit.

The amended application acted upon last night provides for a bus system covering various sections of the city, with a five-cent fare for each three miles or fraction thereof.

Having options to purchase interurban lines, Mr. Gulick declares that he proposes to establish, with the state railroad commission's permission, service into Los Angeles for twenty-five cents a round trip, with fifteen cents for a one-way fare.

Letters of Indorsement

Consideration of the amended application started last night, when Mattison B. Jones, representing Mr. Gulick, outlined the history of efforts to better transportation service for Glendale. He filed a letter from the Glendale Credit association indorsing Mr. Gulick's project and also a similar letter from the directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

Says People Want Action
Unable to attend the meeting, Councilman Kimlin filed a letter in which he declared the people of Glendale wanted action towards

Here's Amended Application Of C. D. Gulick For Bus Line Permit, Favorably Acted On

FOLLOWING is the amended application for permission to operate motor busses in Glendale filed by C. D. Gulick and favorably acted upon by the City Council last night after it was made part of the permit that the City Council has the right to revoke the permit if the line is not in operation within ninety days, and, too, with the further understanding that Mr. Gulick cannot dispose of the permit without a majority of the councilmen granting permission:

In compliance with Ordinance No. 461, being an ordinance regulating and licensing the business of carrying passengers for hire in motor vehicles, in the City of Glendale, applicant, C. D. Gulick hereby petitions the Honorable Mayor and City Council of the City of Glendale, and states as follows:

Age, Residence, Etc.
That applicant resides at No. 903 South Central avenue, Glendale, California; that his business address is 144-A South Brand boulevard, Glendale, California; that he was born in the United States of America in eighteen hundred eighty-three, and is of the age of thirty-nine years; that he is an American citizen; that he has resided in the State of California since he was thirteen years of age.

Routes
Applicant petitions the Honorable Mayor and City Council of the City of Glendale for permission to operate motor busses over, along, upon and through such portions of those certain streets, avenues, drives, highways, roads and boulevards in the City of Glendale as are indicated in red, purple, green, blue and black lines as set forth and indicated in that certain map hereto attached and made a part of this application and marked "Exhibit No. 1," and specifically named as follows: Allen avenue, Western avenue, Tenth street, Grand View avenue, Glenwood road, Kenneth road, Mountain street, Pacific avenue, Burchett street, Columbus avenue, Central avenue, Brand boulevard, Louise street, Jackson street, Adams street, Verdugo road, San Fernando road, Los Feliz road, Park avenue, Glendale avenue and Sycamore Canon road, as strictly local lines.

Applicant has filed with the Railroad Commission, and the same are now pending, applications for certificates of public convenience and necessity, for the transportation of passengers between certain points in the City of Glendale and certain points in the City of Los Angeles. In the

TRANSPORTATION!

FOR more than a year the merchants of Glendale have been clamoring for a means of transportation to be established within the limits of Glendale to afford a way for the people residing in remote districts of the city to reach the business section of Glendale.

Subdividers and realtors have urged the City Council to take immediate steps to grant permits to applicants for motor bus lines that will afford present and prospective residents of outlying districts a prompt and convenient means of transportation to and from their homes.

The City Council last night granted to C. D. Gulick a permit to operate motor busses over various streets of Glendale as explained in the application for permit, published elsewhere in this issue of The Evening News.

Mr. Gulick is a gentleman of many years' experience in operating motor busses and, with the cooperation of sub-dividers and others, will, without question, soon give Glendale a modern and satisfactory means of transportation.

CIRCULATION!

THE circulation of The Glendale Evening News overshadows everything in the way of thorough newspaper distribution in the San Fernando Valley.

The territory so thoroughly covered is Glendale, Eagle Rock, Atwater Tract, Montrose, La Canada, La Crescenta, Tujunga and Burbank. In round numbers 7000 copies are now being printed daily to satisfy the demands for The Evening News, Glendale's only real daily newspaper.

Five men with automobiles are kept busy distributing the paper to outlying points, while fifty boys carry The Evening News to homes within Glendale.

There is a strong sentiment among the people of Glendale that it is good business to give unstinted support to The Evening News, a paper that is 100 per cent for Glendale, and is not promoted merely as a feeder for a Los Angeles paper. There is no propaganda connected with The Evening News management.

Advertisers are invited to witness our press make its daily run and check up on the boys and auto drivers leaving with their packs of papers.

DEATHS, FUNERALS

MRS. LETITIA E. CONNER
Mrs. Letitia E. Conner, a longtime resident of Glendale in the passing this morning, Friday, March 30, 1923, of Mrs. Letitia Emaline Conner at the family home at 1027 Glenwood road.
Mrs. Conner had been in poor health for the past few years and had been seriously ill since last July.

resident of Glendale for the past twenty years, Mrs. Conner was a noon club, the Mutual Benefit Reading circle, the Foothill Improvement association, and the Parent-Teacher association, and gret to learn of her death.

county and city of Armagh, Ireland, 51 years ago. She would have celebrated her fifty-second birthday in May of this year.

in 1892 and was married to James Conner in 1895 in Connecticut, and they celebrated their twenty-eighth anniversary on Wednesday, March 28.

GEORGE CLEMENS MELROSE
Mrs. Gertrude Bley of Brand's Estate is mourning the death of her father, George Clemens Melrose, Friday, March 23, 1923 at his home in Gardena.
Mr. Melrose was a second cousin of Samuel L. Clemens and, like this humorist it was his custom to see the funny side of life.
Two years ago he was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage. After months of tender care by his devoted wife, he became active again. About three weeks ago he was taken down with the flu from which he was just recovering.
While sitting on the porch enjoying the sunshine, without warning and without pain, the final stroke came.
A loving husband and father,
Mr. Melrose was loved by all who knew him. He searched for the good in his fellow men and to their faults he was blind. Many a young man has been started in the right path by his wise and kindly counsel. For eight years he dispensed justice in a court in this county. His decisions were always tempered with mercy.
Born April 8, 1849 in Dayton, Ohio, George Clemens Melrose was one of seven children. His devoted brothers were of an age to enter the army in 1861 but it fell to his lot to remain home and help on the farm. He received a common school education which enabled him to begin teaching school at the age of 18. Later he attended the university at Dayton.
In the early '70s he moved to Elwood, Indiana, where he married Miss Martha Parsons. He and his wife joined the Methodist church. He also became a member and took an active part in this church at Riverside where he lived for several years. Then the family moved to Lancaster to engage in the stock business. In 1900 Mr. Melrose came to Burbank and Glendale. He remained in this vicinity until about five years ago.
Mrs. Bley has the following brothers and sisters: Herman Melrose and Shirley Melrose of Gardena, Mrs. Stella Lander of Redlands, and Cover Melrose of Bakersfield.

Catholic church. Burial will

Park cemetery. The Jewel City

BOY SCOUTS ARE BACK FROM HIKE

Summit of Mount Gleason Is Reached by Members of Camping Party

Twenty-six tired and grim Boy Scouts of the Verdugo Hills distinct returned to Glendale yesterday afternoon from their four-day pioneer hike to the summit of Mount Gleason.

"Every one of us was dead tired by the time we reached the mouth of the Big Tujunga," said Scout Executive Harold Benner, who accompanied the scouts,
"but there wasn't a fellow in the crowd who didn't have a great time and feel that he had accomplished something in making the trip."

mobile Monday morning at 7:45 o'clock and reached the mouth of the Big Tujunga about three-quarters of an hour later. One-half of the scouts had never been on a long hike before. The going up was slow, due to the fact that every scout packed his own blankets, cooking utensils and food.

Monday night camp was made at the foot of Iron mountain. A campfire with stunts, songs, jokes, etc., was a special feature every evening and the scouts enjoyed the relaxation from the day's work.

Hikers Make Camp

Early Tuesday morning the hikers were on their way and made camp at Mount Gleason about 3:30 in the afternoon.
Wednesday morning they took short hikes to several points of interest. It was found that the trail down into the North Fork of Mill Creek Canyon was in such poor condition that it would be hazardous going, so a council was called and the scouts decided to return the way they had come.

Camp was broken about 1 p. m. and the hikers started on the back trail. Trees, plants, flowers and birds were noticed by the scouts and identified. The camp that night was made in Trail Canyon and the following morning the scouts got an early start and reached the mouth of the Big Tu-junga at noon. Here they rested up, but they still had enough pep left to get tangled up in a miniature world war with a big fort and moss rolled into balls as the ammunition.

At 4 o'clock they were met by the automobiles and conveyed back to Glendale. The trip was in more ways than one what it had been named, "A pioneer hike."

FIGHT LOOMS ON WELLER MEASURE

Election Restrictions Bill to Be Reconsidered by Assembly

Special to The Evening News
SACRAMENTO, March 30.—A battle was precipitated on the floor of the assembly yesterday when Frank C. Weller and Allen G. Mitchell's joint bill to restrict elections to one party candidates came before the house for consideration. The fight has been extended and may become one of the most bitterly contested bits of legislation this session.

The bill comes up for reconsid-eration today. Assemblyman Hugh Pomeroy switching his vote after the bill had been defeated by 38 to 28 votes, in order that he might move to reconsider the bill. Pomeroy's action came as a result of the attacks made on the measure by Hornblower and Rosenshine of San Francisco.

While there is only one democrat in the house, Alex McMillan of San Luis Obispo county, many of the Republicans received the endorsement of other parties in the primaries, which made their campaigns comparatively simple.
While this advantage is recognized at the same time partisan politicians wish to prevent a recurrence of the situation such as was seen several years ago in the Ninth congressional district.

Charles H. Randall, a prohibi-tionist by party affiliation, grabbed the Republican and Democratic nominations, and it took all the strength of the G. O. P. to dislodge him.

Governor Charles R. Mabey of Utah yesterday addressed the legislature.

Chamber of Commerce Cancels Mass Meeting

The mass meeting that had been planned by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce to discuss the transportation needs of Glendale, cision reached by the city council last night in granting the C. D.

Gulick interests a permit to establish a motor bus system here.
Dan Campbell, W. E. Hewitt and Roy L. Kent had been appointed as a committee by the directors yesterday to arrange for the meeting, in response to the demands voiced at the meeting of the various organization heads with the directors of the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday night.

Easter Flowers Will Cost Two Millions

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The United States will spend about two million dollars on Easter flowers this year.

This was the opinion of Washington florists, who declared the demand for Easter posies is the greatest in history. Prices on lilies, roses and other favorite Easter flowers are approximately the same as last year with the crop adequate to supply the market.

A couple of hundred thousand dollars should cover the national capital's flower bill.

It was declared at the department of commerce that several ship loads of Easter lilies have been imported from Bermuda, famous also for its onion exports.
Practically all lilies grown in this country are from bulbs imported from Bermuda where the lily was discovered as a commercial product by a Philadelphia woman in 1875.

Most of the lilies cultivated in the United States are grown under glass. Department of commerce experts declared the lily growing so rapidly on poor Arizona zig business in the south.

Spread Dragnet for Two Young Bandits

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—
Police sought two youthful bandits, who, operating in an automobile, are believed responsible for three widely scattered hold-ups.

Manuel Voyates was robbed of $215 and his watch; Mr. and Mrs.
Fred Stelling were held up and relieved of silver; Charles Wagner, Stockton motion picture operator, was robbed of $286 when he stopped his machine near the five mile house to offer assistance to a supposedly stalled automobile and found himself looking in to the barrels of two revolvers.

ALBERT D. PEARCE SCHOOL TRUSTEE

Very Few Votes Being Cast
And Citizens Are Urged To 'Do Their Duty'

Attorney Albert D. Pearce of 119 West Lexington drive today is being elected a member of the high school board of trustees to succeed Dan Campbell of North Glendale, who is retiring after a number of terms as a trustee of Glendale Union High school.

Because of the fact that "Mr.
Pearce is the only candidate in the field his election is not in doubt. Up to noon less than a dozen votes had been cast. Three of these were cast by high school executives, three of them were cast by the election officials and one by a newspaper reporter.

A plea that more citizens would take the trouble to turn out and vote was made this morning by George U. Moyse, principal of the high school. Although he admitted that the total number of votes would not affect the election, he called attention to the fact that the position is one of considerable responsibility and that the person elected would like to be assured of the public confidence.

Election officials are: S.
Riley Lyons, 376 North Jackson street; Mrs. Cora B. Engle, 814
East Harvard street, and Mrs.
Adelaide H. Imler of 336 West Park avenue.

having among its delegates Mrs.
R. E. Chase of 239 North Orange street, curator of the Drama Section of the local club and drama chairman of the Los Angeles District Federation.

Mrs. Chase has brought wide recognition to the Tuesday Afternoon club by her work as drama chairman and the club is greatly pleased over having her at the convention, where she will stay with the district board at the Woman's Civic league clubhouse.

EAGLE ROCK HAS NEW STATE BANK

Institution Will Occupy Temporary Quarters for Few Months

As a result of a recent visit to Eagle Rock by representatives of the California State Banking department, Eagle Rock can count among her assets another banking institution in the form of the Eagle Rock State Bank. The addition of this new institution is a tribute to the thrift and progress of that city's citizenship. It means in a word, that those who safeguard the financial structure of our state, have carefully inquired into the economic, commercial and financial status of Eagle Rock and vicinity, and found that it needed additional financial resources.

The new institution which will open for business on March 31st will be temporarily located in the Mission block, 734 East Colorado boulevard. The temporary location will be occupied during the time that their new permanent quarters are being designed and constructed.

Eagle Rock can well afford to welcome this new bank, for it means that facilities are being placed in the hands of the people of this section that will materially add to values in Eagle Rock generally and the east end in particular. The new bank has an additional interest in that it will add convenience and comfort to the transaction of business generally in the valley, for it is said that the bank will place satisfactorily long hours at the disposal of its customers.

Keep Open House
In the light of an announcement just made by the directors of the new Eagle Rock State bank, Saturday, March 31st, is planned to be an eventful day. The new bank will keep open house in its temporary quarters from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock in the evening, and each person opening an account at this bank on its first day will receive a beautiful silver pencil, presented as a token of the time when the depositor assisted in bringing a new banking institution into existence.

The natal day of a bank is a unique event, and inasmuch as but few do not appreciate the distinction of being known as one of the first depositors in a new bank, there is little doubt but that many persons will be found in line tomorrow to receive one of these beautiful gifts. Some one Eagle Rock man and woman will receive an especial distinction at this bank and will receive a beautiful gold pencil as a special indication of the honored position obtained.

NEW BUSINESS IS SHOWING GROWTH

Lyons Drapery Shop Is Busy With Rush of Orders, Declares Owner

Since the opening of his new drapery shop, February 1, in the Court Shops on East Broadway, reports George J. Lyons, business has been exceptionally good, and the prospects for the future are very bright.

"I take this opportunity," said Mr. Lyons, "to express my appreciation for the way my patrons and friends have stood by me, sending me orders and prospective buyers in generous number, together with kind recommendations as to the quality of my work and the standards I maintain."

"It makes me feel that my past eleven years of hustling in Glendale have been put to good use, and that I am now reaping the benefits of those trying years."

"In completing our first two wonderful months of business, which are over 100 per cent above my expectations, I might state that upon finishing the drapery order for the new Tuesday Afternoon Club, we are still employing our enlarged force and keeping our two workrooms very busy."

The theft of a Waltham watch and small change from his home at 219 1/2 East Park avenue yesterday afternoon has been reported by W. J. Farbar.

HI-Y CONTINGENT CAUGHT IN GALE

Glendale Boys in Thrilling Experience En Route To Catalina

The "Santa Cruz contingent" of Glendale Hi-Y boys returned yesterday from what probably proved to be the most exciting vacation trip of their lives. Originally sailing for Santa Cruz island late Sunday night, the lads were caught in the record-breaking fifty-mile gale early Monday morning and, after battling against ten and twelve-foot waves for more than twelve hours, they were forced to land at Portuguese Bend, a point five miles north of their starting point at San Pedro.

After spending the night at this landing, the would-be mariners started out again, this time going to Catalina island, where they established their headquarters at the Hi-Y camp near Camp Leone Shaw.

The two-day period at the "mystic isle" was enjoyed in hiking, fishing, swimming and several baseball contests. A special baseball game was staged Wednesday afternoon, the "Glendale" trimming the "Burbanks" to the tune of 10 to 8.

Publish Newspaper
At the request of Rex Kelley, who, with Howard L. Butterfield, was in charge of the outing, the boys published a miniature newspaper Thursday evening, chronicling the more important events of the expedition. Newton McGillis was appointed as editor.

Captain E. Z. Collins of 411 West Vine street owner and pilot of the forty-foot tugboat which carried the "vacationists," reports that the sight on the deck of his small craft during the windstorm was "good for sore eyes." With every one of the score of persons on board seasick at the same time, with the exception of the skipper, Captain Collins stated that he was kept busy seeing that none of the boys were washed off the deck.

TRADE IMPROVES ALL OVER SOUTH

Farm Sections Recovering From Depression and Boll Weevil, Claim

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 30.—The agricultural south, hard hit by the boll weevil and the nationwide wave of depression, is in the midst of a rapid comeback. President Harding was informed today by Fred Starek, director of the war finance corporation, who has partially completed a southern inspection trip.

Starek talked farm credits with the president for more than an hour. It was one of the few business conferences Mr. Harding has engaged in since starting on his vacation.

"I have found," said Starek, "that agricultural conditions are rapidly improving in the south. I believe if the ravages of the boll weevil are not widespread the south will not make many applications for loans from the war finance corporation next year."

Fewer Loans Sought
Conditions in both the cotton and cattle industries have made rapid improvement in the last few months, Starek told the president. Nearly 60 per cent of the $90,000,000 lent in southern states has been repaid recently. Applicants for loans are becoming fewer.

President Harding was greatly interested. He expected to dwell considerably on the agricultural situation and what had been done to help it when he makes his swing through the west this summer.

With the end of the presidential vacation at eight, Mr. Harding is already beginning to slack down in his "play" and devote some time each day to consideration of official matters. He is continuing conferences with Chairman Lasker of the shipping board, but no decision has been reached as to the disposition of the merchant fleet.

The Harding party will leave St. Augustine tomorrow night, starting northward by easy stages. Easter Sunday will be spent in Augusta, Ga., where the president and Mrs. Harding will attend services.

Ask Modification of Tea Pot Dome Lease

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Oil producers in the Salt Creek field in Wyoming appealed to Secretary of the Interior Work for modification of the lease of the Tea Pot dome naval reservation to Harry F. Sinclair and the Mammoth Oil Company.

The producers asked that production in Tea Pot dome be limited until they could get satisfactory pipe line connections and additional market facilities. Tea Pot dome is running at full capacity while Salt Creek fields are going at about forty per cent capacity, they said.

Applicant will pay to the City of Glendale, two per cent of the gross income upon local fares only, for the calendar years 1925, 1926, and 1927, and three per cent of the gross income upon local fares only for each year thereafter, during the life of the permit, said amounts to be payable upon the first day of January each year, commencing with the first day of January, 1926.

Agreement to Sell to the City of Glendale

Applicant agrees to give to the City of Glendale the right of first refusal to purchase from applicant, any of the local lines and equipment in use thereon and any of the interurban lines running through or into Glendale, and used in connection with the local lines and the equipment thereon, at such times and for such an amount as said applicant may be offered by any bona fide purchaser, in the form of a written bid, accompanied by a certified check of not less than ten per cent of the amount so bid, said check to be payable to applicant, or deposited in any reliable depository in the City of Glendale; and said applicant further agrees not to sell to the Pacific Electric Railway company, Southern Pacific Railway company, the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Salt Lake Railway company, the Union Pacific Railway company, the Western Pacific Railway company, or any other company, subsidiary to, or in any way connected with any of the steam or electric railways, now or then operating in the City of Glendale, until after applicant has first notified said City of Glendale, and for thirty days after such notification; providing, however, that applicant be permitted to sell, transfer and convey all his right, title and interest in the rights and privileges granted him under this application, and the interurban lines running into the City of Glendale, to any corporation which may hereafter be formed for the purpose of taking over such rights.

COUNCIL DECIDES BUS LINE PERMIT

transportation relief, and that, in his opinion, the matter had been argued long enough. He stated he favored granting the permit to Mr. Gulick provided it be a part of the permit that the council have the right to revoke it if the bus line is not in operation within ninety days. And, too, that Mr. Gulick have no right to dispose of the permit without majority consent of the council in regular session.

Other members of the council favored the suggestions in Councilman Kimlin's letter, but before action was taken the council, at the suggestion of Councilman Stephenson, "cleared the record" by changing its resolution of last December, when it indorsed the efforts of a "company" to secure a bus service for Glendale, the change being to include Mr. Gulick, as he, it was explained, was the "company" and doing the "pioneer" work. The change was made on motion of Councilman Lapham.

In Favor of Competition

During the discussion on Mr. Gulick's application, Peter L. Ferris, contractor, director in the Chamber of Commerce, asked concerning the fares proposed to be charged. Answered by Mr. Gulick, he declared that he was in favor of plenty of competition and was not objecting to the permit being issued. It was brought out that the council was issuing a permit, not a franchise.

Attorney Owen Emery, as president of the Glendale Credit Association, and in favor of Mr. Gulick's application, questioned the wording of the motion granting the permit. Attorney Jones proposed a rewording of the motion that was acceptable to all.

When a vote was called for Councilman Davis declared he was in favor of giving Mr. Gulick a chance to "try out his plan in hope Glendale would get relief. Councilman Lapham pointed out the bus line matter had been considered for about a year.

Chance to Get Relief

"We now have an opportunity to get relief from inadequate service—and a chance to win lower fares to Los Angeles," he said. "The time to act is now. The people in the northwest section want service, as do other sections of the city. Let's give Mr. Gulick a chance to make good; we can revoke his permit if he does not produce the goods."

Mayor Robinson declared he was "glad to vote in favor of the issuance of the permit." He also declared:

"If anyone can establish a bus line for Glendale, I guess Mr. Gulick is the man, if he shows as much energy in the work as he has in trying to get the permit. I really believe he can turn a wheelbarrow into a Ford. I'm for giving him the permit."

Express Their Thanks

With the granting of the permit, Attorney Jones thanked the council and declared that he was certain the system would be in operation as outlined and eventually prove the means of giving Glendale lower interurban fares and improved transportation.

Mr. Gulick, too, expressed his thanks and declared: "I will do my best to carry out the program of better transportation service for Glendale."

The council chamber was well filled with citizens and the arguments for the issuance of the permit, as well as its granting, received considerable applause.

Confiscate Auto in Wright Act Charge

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—For the first time since the enforcement of the Wright act was started, an automobile used in the transportation of liquor was confiscated by the county authorities. William Clarke, arrested by Detective Sergeant George Contreras, was sentenced by Justice William S. Baird to pay a fine of $300 and his automobile was forfeited.

According to the complaint filed against Clarke, to which he entered a plea of guilty, he was arrested by the county prohibition officers while transporting five gallons of bootleg.

Weeks has received a telegram from Karns asking for an appointment for tomorrow, when the charges will be formally presented.

Interests and privileges, and assuming and agreeing to meet all of the obligations of said applicant, relative hereto.

Applicant prays that your Honorable Body will consider this application at the earliest time possible, and that after due consideration, he be given permit as herein requested, and for all other proper relief.

Respectfully submitted,

The population of Van Nuys now is being increased by 50,000 a week! Fifty thousand fluffy, scratching, cheeping, hungry Leghorn chicks are now being hatched each week in the mammoth incubators of the Holly Hatchery.

To keep the plant running to capacity 225,000 eggs are required for every setting or an average of over 10,000 a day. These eggs are laid in large poultry farms in various parts of Los Angeles county. A fleet of specially designed auto trucks bring them to the hatchery in specially designed crates.

B. E. Holloway, owner, is the designer of a patented air-cooling and air-washing device which maintains a uniform temperature over the 18,000 square feet of total floor space.

Eleven men are employed. The yearly payroll amounts to $15,000. The average consumption of gas alone amounts to $150 a month.

Ten years ago Mr. Holloway was an express messenger. He has now made Van Nuys the leading source of supply for baby chicks on the Pacific coast.

C. T. Wardlaw of Van Nuys is now a candidate for the City Council of Los Angeles.

Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce directors recently protested against a proposed abolition of the combination irrigation and domestic water rate by the public service department of the city of Los Angeles. They pointed out that the abolition of this special rate would mean that the rate of two cents per 100 cubic feet of water would no longer be available for ranchers on small tracts.

The rainfall of this season has been so slight that W. J. Pettit, president of the Van Nuys Bean Growers' association, is making an effort to secure a half-rate for irrigation water during April. He states that unless the use of water is stimulated at this time, the capacity of the reservoirs will be exhausted later during the bean growing season. The cost of flooding an acre at present is estimated at four dollars.

A bandstand is now almost completed for the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association of Van Nuys. It is being built on property owned by the American Legion.

Passion Week is being observed by the churches of Van Nuys. A special service was held at noon today in the Methodist church in memory of Good Friday. Last night this church held a communion service in commemoration of the Last Supper.

The Presbyterian church tonight will conclude the special services which have been held every night this week. Wednesday night a preparatory lecture was given for the Easter communion.

Both churches will observe Easter with seasonal music.

Van Nuys Legionnaires, who were recently initiated into The Forty and Eight include the following: R. H. Davis, Herbert Walker, Roger Eaton, Walker Thompson, Gus Boulanger, Garrett McHugh, Sam Woody, Dan Regan, Lloyd Parker and Russell Bogardus.

The Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce recently conducted an investigation into the paving of a street. It alleged that the asphaltic mixture was prepared in Los Angeles and cooled while being hauled to the job.

The Security Trust & Savings Bank of Los Angeles is now planning the erection of a branch in Lankershim. The estimated cost will be at least $50,000. Construction is to be commenced at once and the building is to be ready by the first of October. This bank has a branch in this community already.

The Lankershim Chamber of Commerce is now working a plan of garbage disposal for the business district.

W. J. Friedman is now building an eight-unit bungalow in Lankershim.

A. Snelling is contemplating the erection of a fifteen-unit bungalow court in Lankershim.

Another Lankershim home builder is J. V. Webster.

Lankershim "kids" have recovered from a siege of mumps. Oh, yes, the battle commenced during Easter vacation.

The Millionaires of Happiness will hold Easter sunrise services on Mt. McGroarty. Trumpeters stationed at different points will usher in the first rays of dawn. The first sunbeams upon the large cross upon the summit will be a signal for the services to commence. The hill is to be christened on this occasion in honor of John Steven McGroarty, author of The Mission Play.

Miss Virginia E. Gregory has moved into a new home in Sunland.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Theobald are Tujunga representatives of Kiefer & Eyerick of Glendale.

The McKeon cannery is now under construction in Burbank.

The commencement of the apricot season is expected to see the opening of this plant. About 200 women and forty men will be employed.

H. R. Coburn, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is general manager for this company; Frank McKeon is president; C. B. Fitzsimmons is second vice-president; George N. Stone is first vice-president and superintendent.

The Burbank chapter of Eastern Star April 2 will celebrate its fourth birthday. Mrs. A. W. Reese has charge of the reservations for the dinner party to be held in the Sunset Canyon Country club. Five Hundred will be the "sport" of the occasion.

W. C. Straszer has bought a home in Burbank.

Mrs. Sophia F. Leive of Chatsworth has purchased a home in Burbank.

The Burbank Progressive School of Music will give a faculty concert April 6 in the auditorium of the Edison school.

Miss Nell Hendrick of Paducah, Ky., is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Young.

The Empire China factory at Burbank, which is reported to have its product sold for a year in advance, is making plans to increase its output 5000 dozen pieces a month.

This plant has seven kilns in operation and expects to install three more at a cost of $120,000.

One hundred and fifty employees are on the job now, and the payroll amounts to $15,000 monthly, or $180,000 yearly.

The Burbank Hospital has under contemplation a two-story addition with a capacity of about fifty beds. An emergency ward will be equipped to handle accident cases. Dr. E. H. Thompson has planned a new operating room. There will be new laboratories and an X-ray room also.

A two-story nurses' home will be built in the rear of the hospital. This will contain both dormitories and recreation quarters for the staff.

The interior of the present hospital is being redecorated for its re-opening the first of the month.

Burbank is proud of the fact that its bank deposits last year increased $528,617. In 1921 they were $1,401,187; in 1922 they were $1,929,805. The rate of increase was 37.7 per cent.

PROPERTY MOVES
ROUND MONTROSE

Activity in Realty Market Is Shown by One Firm's Transactions

Perhaps no one week in the history of Montrose and surrounding country has witnessed greater activity in the realty market than the week just closed.

Such is the belief of the Howard-Merwin Company of Montrose which closed a total of $75,500 worth of transactions. The property involved consisted of property in the Bullock and Orange Grove Manor tracts, and in Alta Canada as well as a house and lot on Florentia avenue, La Crescenta.

Robert Steele, who recently came from Jersey City, New Jersey, and George Reuter of Los Angeles have purchased a large tract on Mountain avenue, Alta Canada for $45,000. Their plan is to subdivide this into private estates. Volney Kinne, who is from Buffalo, New York, has taken over five lots in Alta Canada on one of which he expects to erect a home this year.

Richard Sloan of 410 Salem street has purchased a lot at the corner of Michigan and Burr avenue in the Orange Grove Manor tract. Mrs. Loretta Schwab selected an orange grove lot upon which she contemplates building. "The activity has been general throughout the valleys and hills in this section," remarked C. G. Howard. "Indications point toward even greater action in the realty field in this end of the green Verdugo hills."

Rotarians Will Elect New Executives From List Recommended

Numerous reports from committee chairmen were heard at the regular weekly luncheon of the Glendale Rotary club yesterday noon in the auditorium of the Citizens building, among the most important being a report from Chairman George U. Moysa recommending the following members as candidates for the annual election of officers to be held the fourth Thursday in April:

George B. Karr and William E. Hewitt, for president; J. Herbert Smith and William A. Howe, for vice-president; R. E. Olin and Daniel Kelly, Jr., for secretary; J. I. Wernette and Clarence Redmond, for treasurer; and William Hunter, Rev. Ernest Ford, Arthur H. Dibbern and Paul Carson, for directors, two of the latter to be elected.

Chairman J. G. Huntley of the Boy Scout camp site committee reported that a ten day option on the Haynes Canyon location had been obtained, at a purchase figure of $5000 cash.

Must Act Quickly
It was decided that the fifteen or more Rotarians who have agreed to underwrite this proposition will meet for breakfast at the Glen Inn, Citizens building, next Tuesday morning, April 2, at 7 o'clock, to go into the matter of an immediate decision on the site must be reached.

President Roy L. Kent again called the attention of club members to the district conference to be held in Pasadena the days of April 5, 6 and 7. Mr. Kent was appointed official delegate to this convention, with George B. Karr as alternate.

It was decided that the regalia of the Glendale delegation to this conference will be white felt hats with yellow bands, yellow neckties and white flannel trousers.

M. B. Towman, manager of the Glendale branch of the Automobile Club of Southern California, a guest of the club, spoke of the motor vehicle legislation now being enacted at Sacramento, analyzing the various bills in the light of his organization's data and experience, and reading an official recommendation from the board of directors.

This recommendation approves a $2 license, plus a quarter-cent a pound weight tax (half-cent a pound on solid tired duty vehicles), plus a one-cent a gallon gasoline tax.

Raps Weller's Bill
The recommendation disapproves of Assemblyman Frank Weller's Bill No. 262, calling for registration of all property transfers with the county clerk, unless the amendment excluding motor vehicles is retained.

The directors of the Automobile club recommended that no new bonded appropriations for road building be provided until the present road program has been completed, stating that in their opinion it will be better to utilize funds derived from the direct tax for this purpose, at present.

The Glendale Rotary club unanimously endorsed the above recommendations.

Chairman Owen Emery of the boys' week committee reported that it had been decided to concentrate on Friday, April 27, as the one big day of this week in Glendale, when every effort will be made to have 1000 boys turn out in a giant parade.

Chairman Valentine M. Hollister of the "Business Methods" program called upon H. S. Webb and William E. Hewitt, both of whom read carefully prepared, thoughtful papers on the subject of "The Relation Between Employer and Employee."

Mr. Webb stressed the five points, harmony, confidence, stimulates, service and idealism, concluding with the thought, "The ideal in business is what every right-thinking executive is striving toward today."

Defines Executive
Mr. Hewitt dwelt on "maintaining that delicate balance which keeps employer and employees working together in a spirit of co-operation." He defined the ideal executive as a man who can be friendly, dignified, honest, able, appreciative and firm.

Edward Shockley, late secretary of the Rotary club of the first stricken city of Astoria, Ore., a visiting Rotarian, described vividly some of the scenes of the disaster, and ended by thanking the local club for the relief fund so generously raised and promptly sent.

W. A. Horn, a candidate for city councilman, said a few words, stating that his "hat was in the ring" and giving his reasons.

Mayor J. C. Crawford, of Burbank, extended to Glendale Rotarians an invitation to be present in his city Monday night, April 9, when the Burbank chapter of the Rotary organization receives its charter, the meeting to take place at the Sunset Canyon Country club.

The meeting closed with the singing of "Rotary."
Guests of the club were Rev. Philip K. Kemp, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, and M. B. Towman, manager of the Glendale branch, the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Visiting Rotarians were Edward Shockley, Astoria, Ore.; G. W. Myers, Champaign, Ill.; R. L. Anderson, Kingman, Ariz.; J. Will Johnson, Pueblo, Colo.; J. C. Williams, Marshalltown, Iowa; John C. Stannard, Alameda; and Mayor J. C. Crawford, R. B. Senne, J. Small, A. Fellbach, W. S. Sandison, Burbank.

COMMENT That's All

Work Aid to Happiness
Prison System Betterment
Real Need of This Age
Business In Education
—By Gil A. Cowan—

ATTRIBUTING her good health in her prime to the grace of God, the "divine Sarah" Bernhardt, who died recently, added, "I work like the devil."

Would that there were more people who worked "like the devil" and had good health, for more happiness certainly would result in this old world of ours.

"Idleness" is the great cause for crime, according to Judge C. E. McLaughlin of the California Prison board, who testified before a legislative committee the other night.

"Teach our young men and women how to work and you have solved your criminal problem," he said, in a plea for more vocational training in penal institutions.

And he illustrated his remarks by saying those who worked in the furniture factory or on the highways and earned parole never came back. It is those who serve their time in enforced idleness who do not get a chance to make good after they are freed.

What a wonderful opportunity the state of California has in making its prison system the most model in all the world. Would that the legislature vote a million dollars for bettering conditions of those behind the bars.

As Judge McLaughlin recommended, there should be three yards at San Quentin so they could segregate the young fellows from the older and more experienced criminals and keep the "repeaters" and life termers in still other quarters.

We, the people, must remember that the prisoners are human, just like ourselves and their crimes against society represent the crimes of society in not educating and training its unfortunate members.

The judge told the story of a hard-boiled parole breaker, red-headed, cross-eyed, freckled face, and "down on the world." It was seven years ago that the warden appealed to the prison board to do something with the fellow who seemed insistent upon getting into the dungeon.

When he was called before the tribunal he adopted the attitude of a roaring lion, cursing all things of the earth and acting more like a maniac than human. His actions so appalled one member of the board that tears came to his eyes. The young ruffian mellowed, followed the board member to the court yard and apologized, saying:

"Look at me. Do you wonder that I am down on everything. When I was a kid the folks wouldn't let me in the house when they had company. They were ashamed of me. Nobody wants me around here. I was like the little boy in Sunday school class who had nothing to be thankful for. 'God must have ruined me,' was his reply."

The parole board decided on an unusual course of procedure. They had doctors straighten the boy's eyes, remold his features, and gave him mechanical training.

Today he has a business with $7,000 invested. He is happily married and has two children. And that's that.

Captain Duncan Matheson of the San Francisco detective department, testifying before the legislature relative to crime, declared that home training, education and religious education were the real need of the age.

And from other statements it is apparent that home training nowadays is sadly neglected. The right sort of education also is missing. And Judge McLaughlin charged the ministers who are deserting the word of God for sensationalism are doing as much as anything else to promote crime.

The parents place too much confidence in the schools it would appear. They do not teach the youngsters how to work. And in turn, the motion pictures and newspapers and magazines teach them too much about crime. It is an indictment of our modern civilization, this crime wave which has increased 1200 per cent in 10 years' time.

Since January 1, 1922, approximately $10,000,000 in loot has been obtained by burglars and robbers in the city of Los Angeles, according to police records.

Something to think about, folks!

From all evidences there has been something wrong with our

BENEFIT IN AID OF LEGION POST

Fun Revue to Raise Funds For New Building of Organization

Glendale Community Players are to make their next public bow in a Fun Revue, given Thursday and Friday nights, April 19 and 20, in the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse auditorium as a benefit for the building fund of the Glendale American Legion post.

There are forty Glendaleans in the cast presenting the comedy program, said to be light and sparkling and full of clean, wholesome fun. The program will include twenty specialty numbers, singing, dancing and choral numbers.

Among the attractions will be a "Rainbow Ballet," with a song composed for and dedicated to the Rainbow division and produced for the first time at a recent affair in Los Angeles. Costumes for this ballet have been arranged by Miss Dorothy Woods and made by Mrs. E. A. Holway of 201 West Burchett street. The head-pieces were designed and made by Mrs. E. A. Troth of 329 West Maple street. Both Mrs. Holway and Mrs. Troth are members of the Players' wardrobe committee.

Tickets for the affair are to go on sale April 1 and can be secured from any of the players.

Would Start Flying School at Airport

City Manager W. H. Reeves has received communication in which the suggestion is made that the city allot space for two hangars at the Glendale airport where a school may be started to teach those interested in flying the management of an airplane and an insight into its construction. This would be done, the letter states, without asking aspiring aviators to invest heavily in the purchase of a machine or in an expensive course of instruction, but it would have the result, it is claimed, of making them potential purchasers of aeronautical equipment.

The writer plans, he states, to form an aeronautical club and to purchase an airplane which would be used to teach the members of the club to fly, the expenses incidental to the purchase of the plane and the instruction of the club members to be secured by the plane that are yet to be definitely worked out.

The terms on which the city would grant the ground for the hangars would be the subject of a conference between the man behind the plan and the city officials.

It is pointed out that the establishment of the proposed training school and club here would result in an immense amount of advertising for Glendale among the people who are interested in aviation and that it would also help in training many young men whose services as flyers would be available in war time.

BIG PEARL

A sky-blue pearl weighing 93 grains, found at Caney Fork, Tennessee, in 1897, was sold in London for $3,300.

educational system in California, but it has been hard to determine what and where.

From conclusions arrived at by those who heard the budget hearings in the state legislature, the answer formulates itself:

There is a lack of definite plan understood by the body politic.

In other words, our schools have been growing just like Topsy in a topsy-turvy fashion until it is time for the public to demand a definite plan be adopted.

And this is true from the smallest school district to the highest institution of learning.

Buildings, courses, faculties, should be standardized. A definite, systematic approach toward higher education should be made, yet not so crudely as to spoil the lives of hundreds of students who will not be able to enjoy a university training.

It seems to the writer that what is needed now is not more educators, but more business men in education who see the true value of things.

Assemblyman Edgar Stow of Santa Barbara county is to be commended for his resolution calling for an investigation of the public school system in this state.

But the commission should be composed of executives rather than educators. We have too much theory and too little practical application of business principles in public instruction.

Germany Sends Appeal to League of Nations

SAARBRUCKEN, March 30.—German political parties sent a communication to the League of Nations council declaring that France has doubled her troops since February, 1922. Request was made that France be compelled to reduce her military strength to what it was a year ago, also that "French soldiers be forbidden from carrying weapons among German civilians."

LONDON, March 30.—Word was received through official channels that the soviet government at Moscow will not execute Archbishop Cieplak and Rev. TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

The prison authorities said there had been few cases on record of so apparent a reformation as that of Harry Lattimer. When his short-term was served, they gripped his hand and wished him well, and Lattimer walked out to face a life of loneliness.

There had been no reformation. Lattimer was the same man, and he was not a crook. The story of the circumstantial evidence, the man who perjured himself, and of the readiness of some he called his friends to believe him guilty, these were all things to be buried. He would change his name, go West and start over. It would be hard not to look up Ellen and little Joe, but he had thought all that out. The boy was not going to be handicapped by having a father out of prison.

No one in Wyant knew the story behind the man who called himself John Smith, and no one asked. Here men sized each other up by looks and deed, and Lattimer, or Smith, won friends. Wyant was a large city in which Smith moved inconspicuously and lonely. He thought always of the wife and the boy.

"Joe is 13 years old now," he said. "Wonder what sort of a kid he is. If I can't do anything for him, maybe I can even up by doing a lick for somebody else's boy."

John Smith enrolled in a class for instruction in Boy Scout work and proved so efficient he won a place. He hesitated for one day, then went to the Head Scoutmaster and told his story.

"I want to come clean," he said. "So if you don't want me, just say the word." The Head Scoutmaster withheld his decision, wrote a few letters back to the prison, and then signed the commission.

There was never any regret for that decision. The new Scoutmaster won the boys completely and established for them a number of records. Modestly he refused chances for larger fields. "I like to work with these kids from the so-called tough districts," he said. "They aren't tough, you know, only poor. And they're all going to be men."

One day there came to the Scoutmaster a lad who looked a mixture of rebellion and hope.

"What's the chance," he asked, "of your fellows taking in a kid who's tough? They told me I didn't have a chance, and I said I did. Now it is up to you. Whatta you goin' to do?"

"The first thing," Smith answered, "will be to let you wash my face. Then I'll measure you for a suit. You will have to show what you're made of, and as long as you are square with me I'll be square with you. What's your name?"

"Joe Lattimer."

John Smith stared at a wondering boy and all but gave up his secret. After the lad had gone the father walked his room, going over the old problem. This is what had come of his decision to remove himself from his family. The boy had needed a father, and Ellen was living down there in the flats.

"Thank God, I found out!" he said. "I can help now."

John Smith, Scoutmaster, labored with Joe Lattimer, small boy, as few men have ever worked for the salvation of another, and he had his reward. As Joe learned how to play and how to work, in what ways idle time may be spent, and most of all, friendship and teamwork he stepped into a new life.

"I'll make a man of him," said John Smith, "and then—" The old problem, the shame which the prison life held for the innocent man, filled his thoughts.

"Mr. Smith—Joe, in his best suit and nervous, was standing by his desk. Mr. Smith, it's my fifteenth birthday today and, well, I always wanted to thank you sir, for your interest in me. Honest, mother told me what to say—but I mean it." He held out his hand. The Scoutmaster choked.

"And, sir, I hope you won't mind, but mother wants to thank you, too."

Before the older man could escape the door opened and Ellen walked in. Her eyes were brimming with tears, but radiant with happiness as she walked up to the speechless man and buried her head on his chest.

"Oh, Harry, Harry," she sobbed. "We've found you again. I was looking through the door and I couldn't believe my eyes."

"And you're not ashamed of me?"

"I'm proud!"

It is strange that more women do not make the famous old-fashioned Southern Tea Cake. There is no more delicious cake to nibble at between meals or to serve with an afternoon cup of tea or coffee. I have rewritten the time-honored recipe, interlarding it with "just how" details, to help the young housekeeper.

Southern Tea Cakes: Put into a medium-sized bowl one cup of butter, and work this to a creamy consistency. Then work into the butter two cups of granulated sugar, adding only a little at a time. When the two are blended, stir in one and one-half cups of sweet milk in which you have dissolved one-half teaspoon of baking soda. Then add two beaten eggs. Beat well, and add four and three-fourths cups of ordinary bread flour, a little at a time, beating well after each addition.

You will now have a very stiff paste in your bowl. This is as it should be, for these cakes are rolled out with a rolling pin.

Turn the mass out onto a lightly floured board and roll it three-quarters of an inch thick. Now take either a cookie cutter or an ordinary drinking glass, press the edges in flour, and cut the rolled-out batter into discs. Place these discs close together on buttered layer-cake pans. (I generally can get seven or eight of them onto one round pan.)

Get your oven very hot. If you have a Fahrenheit oven thermometer, wait until it registers 500 before putting your cakes in to bake. After 15 minutes, do not be afraid to open the oven door and look at the cakes every now and then. They must not be allowed to burn—just to brown delicately. In all they will require from 25 to 30 minutes of baking. Frost with the following:

Uncooked White Icing: Put one egg-white into a dish. Do not beat it. Rub into it one cup of confectioners' sugar and one teaspoon of vanilla extract. Spread this frosting on the cakes as soon as they come from the oven.

THE HISTORY OF ME BY ME

CHAPTER XI

Here we are again, mamas, dear; your little professor, A. Sockums. You know what "A" stands for? Adorable! The name you gave me! And it stands for thousands of adorables.

Doctor and I just love the letters you are writing us telling you have babies just as adorable as I am. And we have so many letters from boys and girls saying they love me too. Isn't that beautiful? I know that when these boys and girls have the sweet wholesome love for babies they are showing, they sure will keep themselves fine and clean physically and morally so that when they have babies just as me, beautiful healthy babies like me, they will be able to call upon your physician, here is what he will ask you about the baby's bowel movements and you must be observing, so that you can answer correctly. You must also save some of them so he can examine them personally.

Today we are going to continue our little conference on babies' stools. If your baby is ill, mamas, and you have to call upon your physician, here is what he will ask you about the baby's bowel movements and you must be observing, so that you can answer correctly. You must also save some of them so he can examine them personally.

First: Number of stools in twenty-four hours.

Second: Color.

Third: Degree of firmness—formed or unformed.

Fourth: Size.

Fifth: Odor.

Sixth: Presence of mucus, curds, blood, or anything abnormal. Your doctor will also want to know if the baby has had any medicine and the foods he has eaten, for of course these influence the character of the stools.

If there is blood in the stools which can be recognized as blood, that means it comes from the lower end of the rectum or it may be crack around the rectum or it may come from little hemorrhages when there is a severe diarrhea. I see we will have to talk on this important subject still another time.

Five Deaths Reported In Ireland's Warfare

DUBLIN, March 30.—Four irregulars and one Free State soldier were killed in fighting in various parts of the country, according to messages received here. Several others were wounded. A moving picture theatre in this city was damaged by a bomb explosion.

Letters captured by Free State troops indicated that Dan Breen, leader of the irregulars in County Tipperary, will soon go to the United States on some sort of mission.

Heavy firing was in progress throughout Dublin most of the night, but no casualties were reported. The shooting began at 1:30 o'clock when irregulars attacked the Free State military posts. Armored cars swept through the streets firing blasts from their machine guns to dislodge snipers.

BEAUTY CHATS

EDNA KENT FORBES

A COLD CREAM PACK

Complexions that are very dry or very old and wrinkled, or harsh from neglect or ill-advised treatments will benefit enormously from a cold cream pack. This is not a difficult treatment but it is a tedious one, to be given strictly in the privacy of one's room with no possibility of an unsympathetic family coming in to jeer.

The first essential is a really nourishing cold cream, one that contains almond or olive oil for the skin to absorb. I have a formula for an excellent one if you wish to use it. Ordinary creams at 50c a jar or so are of no use except as cleansers.

First wash the face with hot water and a mild soap, such as castile, scrubbing the skin with a fairly stiff complexion brush. This is to stimulate the blood and to open and cleanse the pores. Rinse with hot water, holding a soft face cloth over the skin so that it is red and glowing. Dry quickly, and before the skin cools rub in a generous amount of cold cream. Massage well so the skin has a chance to absorb these nourishing oils. Then rub on more cold cream so the skin has quite a thick coating.

Now comes the difficult part, for the face must either be covered with a linen mask such as beauty shops sell, or it must be bound with long strips of old linen or muslin. These must go across the forehead, around under the chin, holding those lax muscles in place, over the chin and across the cheeks, which is more difficult, and even over the nose. You can see how hard it would be to strap up the sagging muscles properly if this treatment is for old age and wrinkles as well as for a dry skin. I should advise you if you intend to go in for this to purchase the regular type of face mask. A great nuisance, but a good treatment for a bad skin.

Side Talks

THE CHARGE-IT GRAFTER

How do they do it?

I refer to the people who keep getting head over heels in debt and are either being pulled out by relatives or having to go into bankruptcy of the poor debtors' court.

I don't mean how can they bear to do it from the point of view of peace of mind and decency, though that is also an eternal puzzle to me. But how do they get a chance to do it?

Why are they trusted when other people, honest people, would either have to say their bills or lose their credit?

A Thousand Dollar Bill.

I know a man who lived in one of the suburbs of a big city. He ran up bill after bill including doctors' bills, druggists' bills and a grocery bill of $1,000. Finally he moved to another suburb with out paying his bills and has started to do just the same thing again. And the other suburb was not 15 miles from the first.

Another man of whom I know has been through the poor debtors' court two or three times, and in bankruptcy once. The last time he wiped his slate clean the complaint against him included one bill for several months' service on the telephone, several hundred dollars owed for taxi service, and a bill for some months' stay at a hotel. And his only assets were a few personal belongings like his camera, his clothes, etc., the right to sue for breach of contract in regard to some business deal, and the right to sue the hotel which had finally ejected him for not paying his bills. Honestly!

Take Out the Telephone

Now if you and I whose assets are somewhat more tangible than that should fail to pay our telephone bills the company (judging from the one occasion when I did forget our bill) would promptly call us up and tell us that our service would be cut off if we did not pay by a certain date.

Ask Death Sentence For Russian Priest

Don't delay fighting constipation with BRAN that is ALL BRAN!

When constipation flashes its signals of sickness into your eyes and cheeks; into your breath, your brain and your appetite, it is absolutely necessary that you head it off! Toxic poisoning stands close by; Bright's disease and other dangerous diseases await their turn!

The remedy that nature offers is the simplest and most effective—Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, which is ALL BRAN! And it is ALL BRAN! It is ALL BRAN you need when you start to fight constipation. You can't afford to delay a minute and you can't afford to use half-way measures with foods that contain a percentage of bran! Your physician will recommend Kellogg's Bran because it is not only effective, but because it is delicious. Why—you will like its nut-like flavor, which adds so much to any food with which it is served.

Be certain to eat Kellogg's Bran regularly—at least two tablespoons daily; in chronic cases with each meal. Results will prove astounding. Remember that Kellogg's Bran is nature's own regulator, which operates in nature's way—which is the best way!

Eat Kellogg's Bran as a cereal, sprinkled on other hot or cold cereals, or make it up into the best of muffins, pancakes, raisin bread, cookies, macaroons. Kellogg recipes are printed on each package. Let the children eat Kellogg's Bran. It is wonderfully beneficial. It will improve their health just as it will really and truly make over men and women. The value of Kellogg's Bran cannot be overestimated. Sold universally by grocers.

PILES!

There is no suffering like the torture from piles. This continual suffering reacts upon the nervous system and may eventually cause a complete physical breakdown. It is not necessary to endure the torture from piles when quick, sure relief is right at hand. Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment relieves piles at once—and not only that, when this treatment is persisted in, it affords lasting benefit. Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is nationally famous as a remedy for piles, eczema, ring worm, sore feet, hives, insect bites, pimples, blackheads, chafing, chapped hands, chilblains, frost bite and all skin irritations. Read what Arthur Fleury of 63 Rush St., New Bedford, Mass., says:

"I used Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment for Piles and got relief from it. That is about fifteen years ago and I always use Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment when another attack of Piles is coming on me. There is no better Medicine for Piles that I know of that will give you better relief."

You can buy Dr. Chase's Ointment at all drug stores. To be sure of getting the genuine, see that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D. are on each box—your protection against imitations.

AMERICAN NAVAL CREW ADOPTS MANY ORPHANS

Adopted Orphans.

The crew of the United States destroyer Edsall, now stationed at Smyrna, has adopted 100 orphan children in Constantinople. Money for their care is given from the sailors' meagre pay, and the children at present are at an orphan camp, Dolma Bagtche, in Constantinople, under the care of Mrs. Mark Bristol, wife of the American admiral commanding in Turkish waters. The photograph shows some of the children in care of one of their official guardians.

What is Whole Milk or sweet cream Butter?

How Is It Different From Other Butter?

WHY IS IT BETTER? WHERE CAN I GET IT?

It is butter made from Whole Milk brought by fast motor trucks direct to the creamery from the farm. Here the Sweet Cream is separated directly into the churn—and is turned into rich pats of golden butter—all within a few hours from the time of milking.

It is absolutely clean, pure and wholesome and free from all impurities.

Butter experts will tell you it is the Ideal Butter—that it meets the most exacting standards of pure food experts and housewives.

Here in Southern California the ONE such Butter is—CLOVER GLEN.

In addition to being made of SWEET CREAM separated from WHOLE MILK at the creamery

—CLOVER GLEN BUTTER also has the advantage of coming from a dairy country where the herds are grass-fed the year round. And again the butter expert will tell you there is NO BUTTER TO EQUAL that from the "grass-fed herds." In all parts of the world grass-fed whole milk butter is given the highest scoring—it commands the top market everywhere. But the supply is very limited.

Fortunately, YOU can enjoy a butter of this SUPERB QUALITY if you simply insist on CLOVER GLEN. It is advisable to leave a standing order with your grocer as there is not enough CLOVER GLEN BUTTER—made of whole milk—to supply every family in this city. Be sure that you get your pound from your grocer today.

ENGINEER TELLS PAVEMENT TYPES

Any of Standard Methods Give Good Roads If Built Correctly

S. C. Kinch of 328 North Brand boulevard read the following letter from E. E. East of Los Angeles, highway investigating engineer for the Automobile Club of Southern California, at the luncheon yesterday of the East Glendale Improvement association.

"As regards the best type of paving, in our opinion any of the standard types of construction will give good results provided they are built under proper specifications and laid on a properly prepared foundation. Our studies of pavements have led us to believe that the essential part of the construction is to so prepare the foundation as to guard against possible soil shrinkage or settlement.

"There are two types of construction in general use throughout the United States for city pavements; the Portland cement-concrete pavement with a two to three inch asphaltic top and at asphaltic-concrete pavement with occasionally a Portland cement pavement unsurfaced.

"The unsurfaced Portland cement-concrete pavements have been used rather widely during the past ten years for rural highways. It is generally becoming recognized, however, that, due to the very considerable expansion and contraction in such a pavement, a greater degree of success can be had by surfacing these pavements with an asphaltic top at the outset.

"Both Give Service
"As between a five-inch Portland cement-concrete pavement, surfaced with a two-inch bituminous top and a six-inch asphaltic-concrete pavement, or even a well constructed oil macadam pavement six inches in thickness, I am of the opinion that you would find very little difference in service, always provided these pavements are built under proper specifications and laid on an adequately prepared foundation.

"The heaviest traffic roads in California are of the bituminous type. This should not be construed to mean that this type of pavement is more suited to heavy traffic but it is rather due to the fact that the main lines of traffic in populous centers of the state were paved at an early date, when this type of pavement was considered standard.

"You might be interested in looking over some of the various types of pavement. If so, I would suggest the following locations: "On Glendale boulevard from the south city limits of Glendale to a point near Edendale, five-inch concrete base with a two-inch asphaltic top.

"From the foot of the Santa Susanna Pass to the Ventura county line at the summit of the grade, five-inch asphaltic pavement.

Foreign Business Ventures Financed by American Money, Is Shown

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
Copyright, 1923, International News Service
WASHINGTON, March 30.—In addition to the $16,000,000,000 which the world owes the United States, America has nearly $5,000,000,000 invested in private commercial and industrial enterprises in foreign countries, according to a compilation for International News Service by Grosvenor M. Jones, chief of the financial division of the department of commerce.

This situation has a tremendous bearing on the international relationship of the United States, both from an economic and political standpoint.

"New York vies with London as a great international loan market," he declared. "The change from our position of a debtor nation to that of an international money center came with the war and its financial aftermath.

"For a time New York did dominate international finance, but England's remarkable financial system has rapidly restored the 'pound sterling' to its pre-war prestige.

End British Control
"London will always have a rival in New York. Never will Britain control the United States financially.

Against America's $5,000,000,000 invested in other countries, British capital of about $15,000,000,000 is similarly distributed.

The allied debt to Great Britain is approximately 2,000,000,000 pounds.

Glendalians Leave On 3 Months' Tour Abroad

Relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore F. Peirce of 317 West Vine street gathered at the Santa Fe depot in Los Angeles Wednesday afternoon to bid them "Adieu" and "Bon Voyage" on their trip across the Atlantic and tour of three months in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Peirce are en route to Boston and on April 7, they will sail from New York on the Conte Rosso, a Lloyd Sabando line steamer.

Arriving in Naples they will tour Italy, Switzerland, Germany, and France and then cross over to England for a longer tour. They will sail for home June 27 from Rotterdam.

During their absence their home is being cared for by Floyd Finn.

BANK WILL BUILD EAGLE ROCK HOME

Sum of $80,000 to Be Spent At Northeast Corner of Colorado and Central

One of the finest buildings in Eagle Rock, to be the future home of the Security Trust & Savings Bank branch in that community, is soon to rise on the northeast corner of Colorado and Central, at a cost of close to $80,000, announces Manager F. E. Biles of the branch in question.

The new structure will be begun as soon as the present building on the same site can be vacated, which will be on completion of the structure now being erected by Percy F. Schumacher at 105-107 East Colorado, as the bank will occupy Mr. Schumacher's premises temporarily, while the erection of their own permanent home is in progress.

Two-story structure
The new building is to occupy the numbers 101-103 East Colorado, and will have a frontage on that boulevard of fifty-five feet. It will be a two-story structure, with terra-cotta front and tile roof, distinctly Class A in every respect and conforming to the most up-to-date standards of bank buildings.

The reasons assigned by Manager Biles for the erection of such a structure in Eagle Rock at the present time are expansion of their business, plus a confidence in the continued healthy growth of the community.

"We have simply outgrown our present quarters," he states, "and are forced to vacate them long enough to build over to suit our needs.

Business Grows
"It is true that we have had this branch in operation only since last August, but the business that we have done has been very gratifying and warrants our expansion."

The new bank will be ready to co-operate with Eagle Rock in its new era of growth and prosperity by September 1, according to present plans.

Building permits issued in Eagle Rock during Thursday, March 29, totaled $12,200, according to records in the office of the city clerk.

Rev. Prout Speaker
Rev. C. S. Prout talked very interestingly on Wednesday night at the Adventist Gospel tabernacle on Myrtle street, on "The Greatest Romance of the Ages," telling in detail the story as told in the Scriptures, particularly in the Song of Solomon, of the wonderful love of Christ, the bridegroom, for his bride, the Church.

Rev. Prout pointed out how Christ looked upon the people with a great love, and in order to woo them and win them for Himself, sacrificed His position in Heaven, took upon Himself human nature and gave up His life on the Cross—to remain forever identified with humanity.

Greatest Romance
Such a love, Rev. Prout brought out, surpasses anything we see exhibited on earth, and consequently the story of that love is the greatest romance of the ages.

Easter Sunday night, Rev. Prout will answer from the Bible some questions that have perplexed many people and have always been a subject of speculation and controversy—questions such as "why an omnipotent God does not destroy the devil, and why sin, sickness and suffering are permitted in our world."

TODAY—Paris is discussing "the proper age for a girl to marry"—Signs of early spring are appearing—Policemen are to wear armor. These and other notes in today's letter by Alice Langelier.

TOMORROW—Kansas City "rivals" New York and Chicago for the number of jewel thefts in the last year, reports Kenneth Harris, correspondent in that city.

By ALICE LANGLIER
For International News Service

PARIS, March 30.—At what age should a girl marry? This is the question that is being discussed in several large Paris newspapers. It is always a timely subject in France, where marriage is considered the end and aim of every girl's existence. A girl without a husband is lonelier than a fish out of water. "She has not been given the equal rights and business opportunities of her brother as in other countries, and there is really not much for her to do except raise a family."

"For a young girl as well as for a young man there is always time to begin," says Maurice Barres. "Curious question," thinks Madame Verone, a prominent French feminist. "There is no age for marriage. When a girl finds someone who pleases her and loves her—then is the time, be it early or late."

"With age, the virtues disappear," answers Delphine in L'Ere Nouvelle. "I am convinced that only the young women divorce who have been unlucky enough to find bad husbands. I am also convinced that if most girls waited until they reach the age of wisdom they would remain maidens—but that is another question."

"No walking on the ice" reads the freshly-painted warnings about the lakes in the Bois de Boulogne. The keeper of the famous gardens had them put there in case there would be skating on the frozen ponds. Useless precaution, for there have been but one or two days of real winter weather which produced only a thin layer of ice over the lakes. Aside from one day of snow flurries, one can scarcely believe that another winter has passed. Rain has been plentiful as usual, and there have been foggy days which remind one of good old London weather.

And now it's goodbye winter and hello summer, for the chest-nut roasters are moving back south and daffodils are making their appearance in the Paris streets. The flower vendors are beginning to carry them in big bunches on great sticks as they have been gathered in the woods near the city. Cold winds are still likely to blow in the month of March. Nevertheless the daffodils are here, and this means that spring is not far away.

Good cooking stove for sale! Once more the famous cooker used by the Bluebeard Landru is on the market. The man who bought it for 4,200 francs at the public sale soon sold it to an Italian man for the sum of 40,000 lire. He intended to exhibit it at Turin for a two-franc entrance fee. But the police authorities interfered, decided that the stove was an object of scandal and refused him permission to make a fortune. Now

The T. D. & L.

"The Shriek of Araby" Mack Sennett's screaming comedy hit, with handsome, soulful-eyed Ben Turpin in the stellar role, shows today for the last times at the Glendale Theatre.

The picture, which is released by the Allied Producers and Distributors' corporation, was produced under the personal supervision of Mack Sennett, that veteran of film fun, who has made the whole world laugh for over a decade—and this is considered by many the funniest film he has ever turned out.

A bevy of beautiful bathing girls adds much to the general appeal of the production.

Biscuit-baking is older than civilization.

"The Voice From the Minaret," featuring Xena Talmadge, with Eugene O'Brien supporting in a colorful Oriental story adapted from Robert Hichens's novel of the same name, is the picture now showing at the T. D. & L. Theatre.

It is a First National production, presented by Joseph M. Schenck, adapted by Frances Marion and directed by Frank Lloyd, making for a combination of artistic brains and skill, plus star, plus story, such as have rarely if ever before been so supremely united in one production.

Romance breathes and love calls in "The Voice From the Minaret."

"Pasha" is an honorary title given to officers of high rank in Turkey.

As the Public Sees the Legion

THE AMERICAN PRESS is the truest reflection of American affairs. A man may read one newspaper and get a biased view of things, but no man can read 2,000 newspapers representing every state and almost every locality in the country and reflecting all shades of editorial opinion without coming pretty close to seeing things as the country sees them as a whole. Mr. Romeike, president of Henry Romeike, Inc., one of the best known newspaper clipping bureaus in the world, does not personally read 2,000 newspapers, but members of his staff do, and from their reports Mr. Romeike is in a position to form an accurate and detached opinion of how the public regards affairs and individuals. We asked him to take a look at the American Legion. He did, and what he writes is interesting.

"Knowledge is spread, people and things become known, from what other people read, see and hear, but principally by what they read. And the most widely-read thing in the United States is the newspaper. There are more than 20,000 of them. Thus, when we find that by a month-to-month average a certain person is receiving so many columns of newspaper mention the country over, we know to what extent he is known to others.

"Why do people and organizations get mentioned in the newspapers, and thus become well known? Simply because what they say or do interests others or has some bearing on their lives. What you see in the papers is there because most of that paper's readers want it there. By no other policy can a newspaper be successful and continue to exist.

"The American Legion, although the youngest of our great national organizations, is one of the best known. The others which rank highest in point of newspaper mention are the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., the Knights of Columbus, the Y. W. C. A., and the Salvation Army.

"The Legion was born with a great publicity heritage. When the war ended the two best-known organizations in the country were the Army and the Navy. As they disbanded, public interest followed the men who made them. What did these men do? They joined the American Legion, and while their membership figures are unfamiliar to me—enough of them joined to make the word Legion synonymous with veterans, just as Volstead is synonymous with prohibition and Rockefeller with Standard Oil. But that isn't what has kept the Legion before the public. It has been kept there because its leaders have been outstanding personalities and its activities have been of public interest.

"As I said, the clipping bureau business enables one to see others as they are seen through the eye of the American press, which is almost the eye of the American people. I am not a member of the Legion. My knowledge of its affairs has come to me entirely through the channels of my business. The picture I have given you is most incomplete. It is not a picture, only a series of impressions and comparisons, which, in a rough way approximate the conception the man in the street has of the Legion. It is distinctly a favorable impression, and I congratulate you."

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST

Hazards of Insecure Blocking

Numerous serious accidents have been caused by jacked-up cars slipping from their supports and crushing persons who were doing work beneath them, and the motorist who works under his car should do everything possible to guard against this danger. The base of the ordinary jack is so small that it takes but little force to tip it over and let the car move and fall to the floor. For this reason, when one axle of a car is off the floor the tires of the other axle should be heavily and closely blocked, both before and behind, to prevent the car from rolling. Heavy wooden blocks cut a foot or so in length from fairly heavy timbers used in connection with

A Horn Question

J. G. S. asks: Can I operate a Ford magneto horn from the high-tension magneto of my car, which is not equipped with a battery?

Answer: No you cannot use such a magneto for any other purpose than ignition. If you had a battery on your car, you could not operate this horn from it, the magnet horn being operable only from the alternating current produced by the Ford magneto.

Engine runs Up Too Slowly

C. M. writes: It seems to me that it takes too long for the engine of my car to heat up, these cold mornings. It misses for a long time after it is started, as soon as it is warmed up, it runs perfectly. I keep the radiator front partly covered. A mechanical friend of mine says there is something wrong, as it should heat up quicker. What can you suggest?

Answer: Of course, you are taking all hot air for the carburetor, through the flexible tube connected with the stove around the exhaust manifold? We see no reason to believe there is anything wrong with your outfit, as this slow warming up is characteristic of engines which have no hot-spotting and which have exposed intakes. Regular firing would be attained sooner if the jets in your carburetor were larger, but this would spoil your fuel economy. As soon as you have started the engine, cover the radiator front and hood heavily with blankets and idle the engine with the spark as late as practicable in order to increase the heating rate.

Dry Cells for Starting

C. B. A. asks: How can I wire up dry-cells to spark the engine of my car at starting? When the storage battery is not fully charged, the spark produced from it, during cranking, is rather weak and makes starting difficult.

Answer: Wire up five dry cells, in series, in a box located somewhere on the car; connect one of their end terminals to some point

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SPRING BONNET

"Uncle Wiggily, are you going to be very busy today?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning, when the bunny rabbit gentleman started to hop away from his hollow stump bungalow.

"Oh, not so very busy—why?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Where are you going?" Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy wanted to know.

"To look for an adventure," answered Uncle Wiggily.

"Then perhaps on your way home, you wouldn't mind stopping at the six and seven cent store and bringing my new spring hat," asked the muskrat lady.

"Of course, I shall be most delighted to do that," answered Mr. Longears with a low and polite bow. "I didn't know you had bought a new spring bonnet," he went on.

"Oh, yes," said Nurse Jane. "I just had to have one. It is being made to order. I had some cabbage roses put on instead of the carrot sunflowers which were on it first, and if you'll stop and get it—"

"Do I have to wait for them to trim it?" Uncle Wiggily asked.

"No, indeed!" laughed Nurse Jane. "I know how much you dislike shopping in the six and seven cent store, so I asked them to have my bonnet all ready for you to step in and get. You won't have to wait a moment."

"All right!" said the bunny. "Of course, I don't mind doing a little thing like that," he said; "but when I have to ask my way around from the lace counter to the glove department and back down the middle aisle to the perfumery section, with the little mouse girl clerks making fun of my pink nose—that's terrible!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

"I know it is," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "But there will be nothing like that today. Just step in, get my spring hat and bring it home."

So Uncle Wiggily did. There was quite a number of lady shoppers in the store buying presents for their friends, but Uncle Wiggily hopped his way to the hat counter.

"A spring bonnet to be ready for Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy," he said to the little giggling mouse girl clerk.

"Oh, yes, here you are! It's all ready! Isn't that too sweet for anything?" said the mouse girl, holding up what seemed to be a bonnet of red, blue, yellow and purple flowers. "I'm sure she'll like it."

"It looks to me like a part of a garden," said Uncle Wiggily, trying to speak gruffly and indifferently. "Please wrap it up and I'll take it."

Uncle Wiggily was hopping home with Nurse Jane's spring hat in a paper bag, and he was just thinking that he had had no adventure as yet when, all of a sudden, he heard a noise that made him jump.

"Zip!" went the paper bag, a long hole being torn in it because Uncle Wiggily jumped against a thorn bush. And then, out from behind the bush, came the Bad Bob Cat.

"Oh, ho!" howled the Bob Cat. "I was waiting for you, Uncle Wiggily. I am going to nibble your ears, but—hello! What have you there?" the Bob Cat asked, looking sharply at Nurse on the frame for a ground; connect the other end terminal to one side of a push-button, conveniently located; and connect the other side of the push-button to the terminal of the regular ignition switch, to which is attached the wire which goes to the resistance unit on the coil. To start the engine, do not close the regular ignition switch, at first, but hold the push-button closed, while the engine is being cranked. When it starts, put the ignition switch on and release the button. The object of using a button and not a special switch is to avoid running down the dry-cells. The engine should not be run long with the ignition switch off, for fear of injuring the generator, which is then open-circuited.

All of a sudden he heard a noise.

single flower! Excuse me! I must go see my doctor. And away he ran.

"I'll excuse you!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Ha! Ha! Ho! Ho!" laughed the bunny rabbit. "Of course he couldn't smell make-believe artificial flowers on a hat. He thought they were real! Ho! Ho!"

Then Uncle Wiggily, glad his ears were not nibbled, hopped home with Nurse Jane's spring flowered bonnet. And if the nutmeg grater doesn't want to play tag with the silver sugar bowl and scratch it all up, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the fired fox.

JACOBS DEFENSE SCORES IN TRIAL

State's Case May Collapse If Prosecution Fails to Prove Murder

By KENT COCHRAN
For International News Service
SAN DIEGO, March 30.—The trial of Dr. Louis L. Jacobs for the murder of Fritz Mann, beautiful young dancer, was in recess today until next Monday with the gage of battle veering strongly to the side of the defense.

Several of the prosecution's witnesses have been brought up sharply by objections of the defense, which have been sustained on the ground that the corpus delicti, or the fact of the murder, has not been proved. Observers at the trial predict that unless the state is able to show through Dr. John Shea, county autopsy surgeon, that Miss Mann came to an unnatural death, or more explicitly, that death was due to other cause than drowning, the case of the prosecution will likely fall to the ground.

SUBMITS REPORT IN PAVING PROBE

Result of Inspection Trip May Decide Surface of Glendale Avenue

The paving of Glendale avenue was the principal topic of discussion yesterday noon in the Harriet Mae Tea Room, 201 East Harvard street, at the weekly luncheon of the Glendale Advancement association.

H. L. Findlay of 330 West Doran street made a report upon a trip for the special purpose of inspecting bitulite paving installed under specifications furnished by Warren Brothers of Los Angeles. He stated that he had seen some of this type of paving which had been used for six or seven years and seemed to be as good as the day it was laid. He referred to a two-inch pavement of this construction in Santa Monica, which has been used four years, and which, he declared, is as smooth as the day it was put down. He said that samples had been observed of both concrete and Willite paving, which is in need of repair.

"I am not speaking for the other members of the committee," he remarked, "but I am convinced that four and a half or five inches of Warrenite would suit the wants of Glendale avenue."

According to Mr. Findlay, a street paved with four and a half inches of this type of pavement at San Pedro showed not a mark after naval guns weighing seventy-three tons had been dragged over it en route to Fort McArthur.

Warren Brothers were represented at the luncheon by C. J. McElroy of Los Angeles and W. T. Wallace of 105 East Lexington drive. Mr. McElroy expressed a desire that property owners, who are to pay the bill, should see samples of this paving. He stated that he would be more than glad to arrange an excursion for them.

Wants Information

Herman Nelson of 700 East Broadway fired a barrage of questions in regard to the paving of Glendale avenue. He inquired how far the proceedings had gotten; whether it had been decided to pave the entire width of the street; how the kind of paving would be determined; and whether it would be possible to spread the cost over an assessment district.

City Manager W. H. Reeves expressed an opinion that the formation of an assessment district to cover the cost of this improvement would be establishing an unwise precedent. He called attention to the needed improvement of Colorado and other streets.

"Everybody wants their street paved, but nobody wants to pay for it," he remarked. "I can see a lot of trouble ahead if an assessment district is formed."

According to Mr. Reeves, the city engineering department has now finished the preliminary proceedings for the paving of Glendale avenue. He asserted that these had to be worked out very carefully, in order that the proceedings might not be cancelled by court action after bids had been advertised.

"Present proceedings would contemplate a uniform paving," he declared. "However, that unquestionably would be modified, if a majority petition came in from property owners. The same is true with regard to paving with concrete."

C. F. Stuart of 635 East Broadway reported that the paving committee was in favor of paving the entire width of the street. He stated that the main sewer line will not pass down Glendale avenue, but that trunk lines will run east and west.

The only thing which delays the actual work of electrifying the Union Pacific's line on Glendale avenue is a franchise to operate in the City of Los Angeles from the Glendale city limits to the terminus of the line.

This statement was made by P. L. Hatch of 618 North Kenwood street, general manager for the Glendale and Montrose Railway.

"Everything is going along as well as can be expected," he said. "There were certain conditions that had to be met before anything further could be done. On our part these have all been fulfilled. There now remains but one little thing. We are not anticipating any difficulty, but until that is accomplished, we will not be in position to go ahead."

DOUBLE TRAGEDY IN LOVE TANGLE

Woman Shoots Contractor In New York Office, Turns Pistol on Herself

NEW YORK, March 30.—Learning that the man she loved was married, and her unwillingness to give him up, caused Miss Helen A. Zeigler, 26-year-old daughter of an exporter, to mortally wound Frederick W. Burnham, wealthy contractor, and then kill herself in his office in the Grand Central terminal building late yesterday, police believe today in the hospital.

Friends of Burnham knew of an affair he had with a young woman, they told the police, and had heard the handsome contractor express fear he would be killed.

Miss Zeigler went to Burnham's office, waited until he finished talking business with another man and then went in. They closed the door.

Harry S. Cox, Burnham's office manager, heard their voices get louder and louder as they talked until he could tell they were quarreling. Then he heard two shots. Cox ran downstairs and summoned assistance and when he got back, pushed the door open. The girl lay dead on the floor. A bullet in her right temple brought instant death. Near her lay Burnham with a wound in his left temple.

Starts Brick Building On W. Colorado Street

Councilman Sam Davis is planning to erect a one-story brick building on his property at 118 West Colorado, and the foundations for the new structure are already in. The building will cover a space of 75x135 feet, and as soon as it is completed, which will be about June 1, it will be occupied by R. E. Corrigan, agent for the Dodge cars, who has already signed a lease on the building.

Mr. Davis will move the house that is now on the West Colorado street lot to another lot at 900 East Colorado, and will run the work on the business building as rapidly as possible.

New Engineer Named By Rail Commission

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—Walter J. Dodge has been appointed telephone and telegraph engineer of the railroad commission, effective April 1, 1923, to take the place of Telephone and Telegraph Engineer A. L. Wilson, who has resigned to take up private practice.

Since 1918 Mr. Dodge has been employed by the California railroad commission, as assistant engineer, in the gas and electrical division, specializing on public utility service and rate matters. Mr. Dodge graduated from Stanford university in the class of 1913 in electrical engineering.

Glendale avenue was brought up by Mr. Stuart. He stated that he had been informed that several applications for franchises to operate busses on Glendale avenue had been received by the City Council.

"If we can't pull up their tracks," he remarked, with a laugh, "we could scatter tacks. I think this organization ought to have its eyes open and its ears awake as to what the council is doing toward granting a franchise on Glendale avenue."

The fact was brought out that C. D. Gulick had an option to purchase the Verdugo Hills Transportation Company, which already runs down Glendale avenue.

C. W. Ingledue of 501 East Wilson avenue inquired whether Mr. Gulick expected to have other local bus lines act as feeders to this line. Mr. Reeves stated his opinion that such is the desire.

"I think that we have considered this matter sufficiently," stated S. C. Kinch of 328 North Brand boulevard. "I make a motion that we go on record now opposing any further bus line on Glendale avenue."

The motion passed unanimously.

SPORTS

The World Over

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

"The affair is in the hands of my attorneys." That's the attitude of the principals in the Pacific Coast baseball controversy in which it is alleged that an attempt at syndicate baseball is being made by certain individuals. Having arrived at that stage the public can make up its mind that nothing to which they are, of right, entitled to a knowledge, will be vouchsafed them.

Derby Dillon, a Pacific coast harness sensation last year, was sold four years ago when it was two years old, and a cow pony on a ranch, for $100. He was sold a few years ago to a Salinas, Calif., horseman for $6000. Derby Dillon will be shipped east and will take part in the opening of the Grand Circuit harness races in July.

As far as they have gone, the Hawaiian-raised polo ponies owned by the army team from Honolulu have made a most favorable impression on those who have watched the action of this stock on the polo field. They appear to be a match for the best of the Pacific coast raised stock which is considered about the best that the country affords. A score of the island animals were shipped over to California to be used in the Pacific coast polo championships which have just started and continues through April.

What becomes of the champions of the vesteryears? What is their fate? For instance, twenty-five years ago at this time, Mrs. W. P. Shattuck carried off the honors at the sixth annual match of the Interstate Shooting association at Long Branch, N. Y. What has been the fate of Mrs. Shattuck?

If everything one reads nowadays about Babe Ruth is gospel truth, the Yanks' star hitter has weak eyes, a bad stomach, is shaky on his pins, looks debilitated, lacks pep and dash, is slow on his feet and his wind is bad. However, the general assumption is that Ruth never again will shine as he did two years ago and there seems to be plenty of evidence of a physical nature to back up this opinion. Ruth has not the mentality to co-ordinate his physical abilities once nature has betaken itself from the job, and it would seem that he is in a state verging on a mental panic. It will be much to his credit if he can pull himself together, but few look to see this result achieved.

OAKS ARE READY FOR FLAG'S FALL

Strong Pitching Staff Is Manager's Ace For Pennant Race

By IVAN HOWARD
Manager Oakland Baseball Club
Written For International News Service
OAKLAND, March 29.—The Oaks are improved in all departments over last season, and I firmly believe if our pitchers perform as they did last season, and I feel confident they will, we will be up there or thereabouts when the final gong rings.

Our regular infield will be made up of La Fayette on first; McGaffigan, second; Smith, short, and Brubaker, third. Our outfield will be Cooper Willie and Metzger or Cather. Our catcher, staff made up of Thomas, Baker and Read, is a fighting, peppery one which will help to keep the whole team up on its toes.

Our pitching staff was strong last season with Arlett, Krenner and Krause as mainstays. The addition of Mails, left-hander, of the Cleveland world's championship team, gives us four pitchers with Colwell and Ely to help out, and we have developed two youngsters in Murchio and Wells who may be taking their regular turns before the season is very old.

Good Utility Men
Besides our regular men we have in Jack Knight, Ossie Johnson and Al Meadows, three of the best utility men we have ever had on the roster. Knight, who had the misfortune of losing a finger last season, thus putting him out of it for a whole year, has come back strong and will be ready to jump in as a regular any time, and his great hitting will make him one of the best pinch hitters in the league.

At present Pitcher Mails and Outfielder Wetzel are on the sick list. Mails may not be able to open with us at Los Angeles, but should be ready when we are a home the following week. Wetzel is not seriously ill and may appear in left field for us.

PHILLIES PREPARE FOR FAST DRIVE

Connie Mack Strengthens Offensive Side of Athletics Team

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 30.—The Philadelphia Athletics, after threatening to make trouble in 1921 and 1922 without carrying the matter as far as fulfillment, are just about ready to step. They feel that this is their year.

That is the training camp outlook. Connie Mack stands pat on his pitchers and catchers and has added powerful offensive strength without weakening his defense. He feels that, if he gets the pitching he could muster last year, he will win many baseball games that then escaped his lean clutch.

The additional punch in the offense is expected to be furnished by Wid Mathews in the outfield and $75,000 Sam Hale in the "nerworks". Mathews, who was Milwaukee's lead-off man last year, is looking to play center field in the Mackian combination. "Bing" Miller is a fixture probably in right field. Miller hit .336 last season and Wid Mathews pulled a .333 average. Left field will be disputed by Tillie Walker, Frank Welch and Frank McGowan. Walker has been in the league for twelve years and was runner-up to Ken Williams for home runs in 1922, but failed to make the 300 mark. He may, therefore, be ousted from left field by either Welch or McGowan and the latter, on the strength of his stellar performances with the Newark Internationals in 1921, appears to have the better chance.

CHICAGO, March 30.—Claude "Lefty" Williams, once famous left-handed pitcher of the White Sox, whose career was wrecked by the 1919 world's series scandal, was lying at the point of death at a hospital here today. He was taken ill with pneumonia four days ago, and his condition rapidly grew worse.

The Pacific Coast Baseball League will open its twenty-first annual season on April 2. Organized in 1903 the league has gone along improving its standards both in the matter of calibre of ball and players for public approval and incidentally all the time has been gaining greater prestige with the public. Today the type of baseball displayed in the coast league is on a par with any of the large eastern minor leagues, and many eastern experts have been so good as to say the coast league standards are better than the eastern minor leagues and even on a par with the type of ball displayed in the majors.

The winners of the coast league pennant since the organization of the league are as follows:

Year	Winner	Pct.
1903	Los Angeles	.630
1904	Tecoma	.589
1905	Los Angeles	.604
1906	Portland	.657
1907	Los Angeles	.603
1908	Los Angeles	.585
1909	San Francisco	.622
1910	Portland	.567
1911	Portland	.589
1912	Oakland	.591
1913	Portland	.559
1914	Portland	.573
1915	San Francisco	.570
1916	Los Angeles	.601
1917	San Francisco	.561
1918	Vernon	.569
1919	Vernon	.613
1920	Vernon	.556
1921	Los Angeles	.574
1922	San Francisco	.638

In 1904 and 1905 two series were played, the former year Tacoma and Los Angeles were tied and Tacoma won the pennant in the final analysis. In 1905 the same two teams tied up, each winning a series and in the play off the Los Angeles team won the honors.

REVEAL SCANDAL IN VETS' BUREAU

Wild Extravagance Shown in Contracts for Dental Work on Soldiers

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, March 30.—Evidence of wild extravagance and alleged "irregularities" in the control of hospitalization funds, which may ultimately reach the proportions of a national scandal, has been unearthed by the preliminary senatorial investigation of the United States veterans' bureau, International News Service learned officially today.

After merely touching the surface of the bureau's administrative record, the senatorial inquiry is said to have revealed instances of "gross abuses" in the award of contract payments for dental treatment of former soldiers. These contract payments were involved in expenditures running into millions of dollars, it was said.

Other evidence now in the hands of the investigators is understood to indicate the inquiry would ultimately reveal gross negligence and perhaps even actual dishonesty in the administration of the bureau.

The preliminary probe, which unearthed this evidence, was conducted by Major-General John F. O'Ryan of New York, acting as special counsel to the senate committee. A special report setting forth his findings to date has been prepared by General O'Ryan for submission to the committee.

As a result of the preliminary revelations, General O'Ryan has taken steps to create special investigating agencies in every state of the union. These state boards will be composed of widely known lawyers who also served in the army during the war.

It was revealed that $2,500,000 had been spent by the bureau in the six months preceding June 30, 1922, in caring for the teeth of disabled veterans. Examination of the veterans' records, it was said, subsequently showed that few of the patients had suffered dental defects as a result of war service.

Await Fight Results Before Dating Champ

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—Jack Kearns will not make an immediate reply to the offer of $200,000 for Jack Dempsey's end of a purse for a Dempsey-Tom Gibbons bout at Shelbyville, Mont. July 4, he announced.

"The champion's future ring engagements depend very much on the outcome of the bouts in New York May 12, when Willard, Firpo and Johnson will get busy," said Kearns. "I will consider every angle before signing for any bouts. Now that it appears that Dempsey's chances to realize his ambition to be a fighting champion are very high I don't want to take any definite steps that might interfere with future plans."

"The Shelbyville people are sincere and their offer will receive every consideration, but I am not going to tie the champion up three months in advance at this time."

They tell us Americans don't understand the Irish situation, but Illinois is helping us to get the fundamental idea.

From 1903 to 1906 the league was a six team affair and the next two years four teams, Los Angeles, Oakland, San Francisco and Portland formed the league. From 1909 to 1915 Seattle returned to the league after an absence of thirteen years and Portland again came back after being out in the 1918 season. This brought the league up to eight teams with Salt Lake, Oakland, Sacramento, Portland, Seattle, Vernon, Los Angeles and San Francisco, and since that time the league has been a full eight team proposition.

Los Angeles and Portland are tied in the matter of winning pennants, both of these clubs having five wins to their credit since the formation in 1903. San Francisco has a list of five pennants, while Vernon is next with three winning teams. Tacoma in the early days twice won the league pennant and Oakland in 1912 netted its only pennant to date.

Portland has the honor of having won the pennant with the largest percentage, this being in 1906 with a percentage of 657 for a six team league. Vernon won the pennant with 556 per cent in 1920, the best the lowest percentage is win the "rag" and this in the eight team aggregation. In the six team league races Portland, holds the honor with having won in 1913 with 559 per cent, this being the lowest per cent in the six team races.

TWENTY INJURED IN GOTHAM FIRE

Nurses Calm Patients in Hospital as Smoke Fills Building

NEW YORK, March 30.—One fireman was fatally injured, eleven were injured and eight other persons hurt in a million dollar fire early today that destroyed the Madison Square Wet Wash laundry, a few doors from Bellevue hospital, where 2000 patients are under treatment. The eight other injured were spectators who were hit by bricks and slabs of mortar from the falling walls.

Fireman John B. Spanier suffered a fractured skull and died in a hospital. The firemen were hurt when a rear wall fell. Scores of persons rescued them. All were taken to the hospital.

Panic was threatened in the hospital when clouds of smoke settled over the building and began to fill the halls. Nurses went to the wards calming the patients and reassuring them.

Several buildings adjoining the laundry were badly damaged.

FRANCE CHANGES GROUND ON RUHR

Willing to Examine Offer From Germany Coming Through Allies

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service
PARIS, March 30.—Premier Poincaré sent a message to the Chamber of Deputies today stating that France will examine any offer made by Germany through the allies for settlement of the Ruhr problem providing it is "precise, serious and direct."

Heretofore France had maintained the position that any German proposals would have to be made direct from Berlin to Paris. Premier Poincaré's announcement was received with applause. The chamber of deputies adjourned later until May 8, after voting the appropriations necessary to maintain the military forces in the Ruhr.

Direct Negotiations
Premier Poincaré's message was carefully worded and was received just before adjournment for the Easter holiday. He said that the government had decided to allow Germany to make an offer to France through the allies, on condition that they are "serious written propositions and not an attempt at mediation."

"We will not accept any semi-official or indirect negotiations, but the day the German government recognizes that resistance is destructive to Germany itself and brings to us or to the allies serious, precise propositions we will examine them with loyalty and justice."

There are two sources through which such an offer could be made: Great Britain or Italy.

Feud Outbreak Looms In Kentucky's Hills

HARLAN, Ky., March 30.—The danger of an outbreak of the "feud" warfare for which these Kentucky hills are famous was apparent everywhere today as a result of the killing of four persons when a "posse" of twenty-two men opened fire on a barricaded cabin.

One of the dead is a woman. Although the raiders were reported to be in quest of illicit liquor, that explanation is snuffed at by feudists who learn to hate when they are weakened.

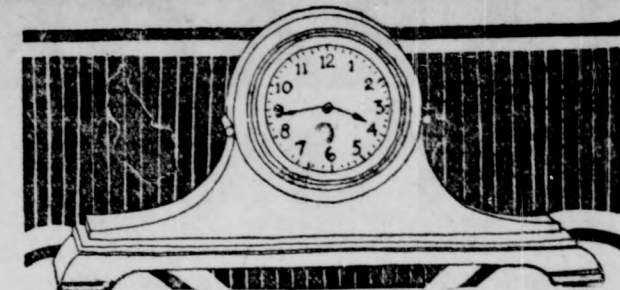

The battle ground was at the mouth of Beach Fork creek, in Leslie county. The county was "invaded" by the "posse" from Harlan county, who surrounded the humble cabin and hid behind piles of cord wood. They called on the occupants to surrender. The answer was a rifle barrel thrust through a small window, a flash of red flame and the crash of a heavy calibre projectile.

Instantly 22 rifles, every one of them 50-75's, roared. Ike Strong and his wife, and George Strong, occupants of the stockade, were slain. So was Kelly Walker, one of the possemen. Under a rickety bed in the cabin were huddled the five frightened screaming children of the Strong's. None of them was hit.

Today and Tomorrow Only!

Nebaska Alumni to Welcome Track Squad

University of Nebraska alumni living in Glendale are making plans to attend a banquet at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the City Club of Los Angeles.

A thousand graduates of this college are located in southern California. Tomorrow's reunion will be in the nature of a reception to the twenty-five members of the track squad who are stopping over in Los Angeles en route to a track meet with the University of California at Berkeley, April 7. They are accompanied by the football coach, Fred Dawson, and the track coach, Henry P. Schulte.

In order to keep in trim, the squad is exercising this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon on Occidental field.

Edwin J. Ohlsen of 619 North Isabel street is the secretary of the University of Nebraska Alumni Association of Southern California. He stated that he would be very glad to furnish any further information in regard to the banquet. He called attention to the fact that the City Club is located in the Chapman building at Eighth and Broadway, Los Angeles.

RATS IN COUNTY JAIL—REAL ONES!

Member of Jury Writes of Experience; Raid Upon Beans Is Told

The following has been presented to The Glendale Evening News by Mrs. C. O. Pulliam of 114 Arden avenue, well known Glendale resident and member of the Tuesday Afternoon club.

Mrs. Pulliam recently served on a jury in Los Angeles and the sketch herewith printed was written by a fellow juror and the scene described was witnessed by Pulliam.

Editor: The Glendale Evening News: "Stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage." We have lately seen some truth exemplified. There are some inmates of the county jail who, to all appearances are as frolicsome and care-free as lambs in a meadow. The rules may be ever so rigid, but they are never depressed in spirit nor discontented with their lot, and this in spite of the fact that most of them are in for life. There can be no question as to their guilt, for they are not only vagrants, absolutely refusing to work, but also inveterate thieves, having made a profession of pilfering almost from the time they were able to walk. They are a clanish lot, refusing to associate or have any dealings with those outside of their own particular coterie. Their incarceration in jail has no reformatory effect whatever, and they continue to pilfer day by day. Many are the maledictions hurled at them, and occasionally one is caught red-handed, in which case he is summarily dealt with. There is a strong, growing conviction among the other prisoners that this particular class should be banished from the jail forever, but the authorities, so far, seem to be rather indifferent in the matter.

Makes Discovery
We are not referring to the rats. What! Are there rats in the county jail? Just ask someone who knows. Here is something which came under our personal observation: The writer is a member of one of the juries in the criminal court. This jury, one night while deliberating on a burglary case, in the same court where the much celebrated Obenchain-Burch case was tried. The two windows in the jury room look directly down on the "Bridge of Sighs," and also face the windows of the jail kitchen, opposite across the court, a matter of thirty feet away.

We (the majority) had exhausted our reasoning powers on one or two obdurate members, whose minds seemed impervious to the well-directed flow of logic and eloquence, interspersed with occasional witticisms and shafts of sarcasm, and in sheer weariness we dropped into topics of ordinary conversation.

Not False Alarm
Then came an unexpected diversion. One of the women members, gazing out of a window, suddenly exclaimed: "Why, just look at the rats!" We all hurried over and looked across to the jail kitchen. It was not false alarm, for in the glare of the electric light the rodents were holding high carnival. Not merely two or three, or half a dozen, but literally scores of them. One of the women afterward said she counted seventy-five. There were rats old and grizzled, bearing the marks of many a sanguinary conflict; so old that they hobbled stiffly across the floor; others were fat, sleek, alert, in the full vigor of rathood; others were half grown, while not a few were little fellows just emerged from the seclusion of home life, and were making their first appearance in public.

The food in the kitchen was in large open pans. We noticed particularly a pan of beans, close to the window. First, the rats would cautiously approach, abstract a bean or two, and then make for cover. But emboldened by silence, and fortified by their own superior numbers, they cast all fear aside, jumped into the pan and ate to the full. We leave it to the reader to imagine the condition of the beans after several scores of rats had camped on them. Remember, these beans were an important part of the prisoners' diet for the coming day.

We submit this little sketch, believing it will throw an interesting side-light on jail conditions in Los Angeles.

ALL SALES RECORDS ARE BEING BROKEN IN BELLEHURST PARK

GLENDALÉ'S LATEST AND CHOICEST SUBDIVISION BEING SOLD OUT ALMOST OVERNIGHT; EVERY HOMESITE A JEWEL

Walter H. Leimert Company, Recently of San Francisco, is Bringing to Light the Many Wonders of This Charming Property

Bellehurst Park is breaking all records for quick sales, as it is almost all gone and the first announcement in the Los Angeles papers is only two weeks old. To date, more than seven hundred thousand dollars worth of property has been purchased, and the volume of sales is increasing every day.

A combination of very exceptional conditions makes Bellehurst Park the most desirable residence section of Glendale, if not of the entire metropolitan area of Los Angeles.

Bellehurst park is breaking all records for quick sales as it is almost all gone and the first announcement in the Los Angeles papers is only two weeks old. To date, more than seven hundred thousand dollars worth of property has been purchased, and the volume of sales is increasing every day.

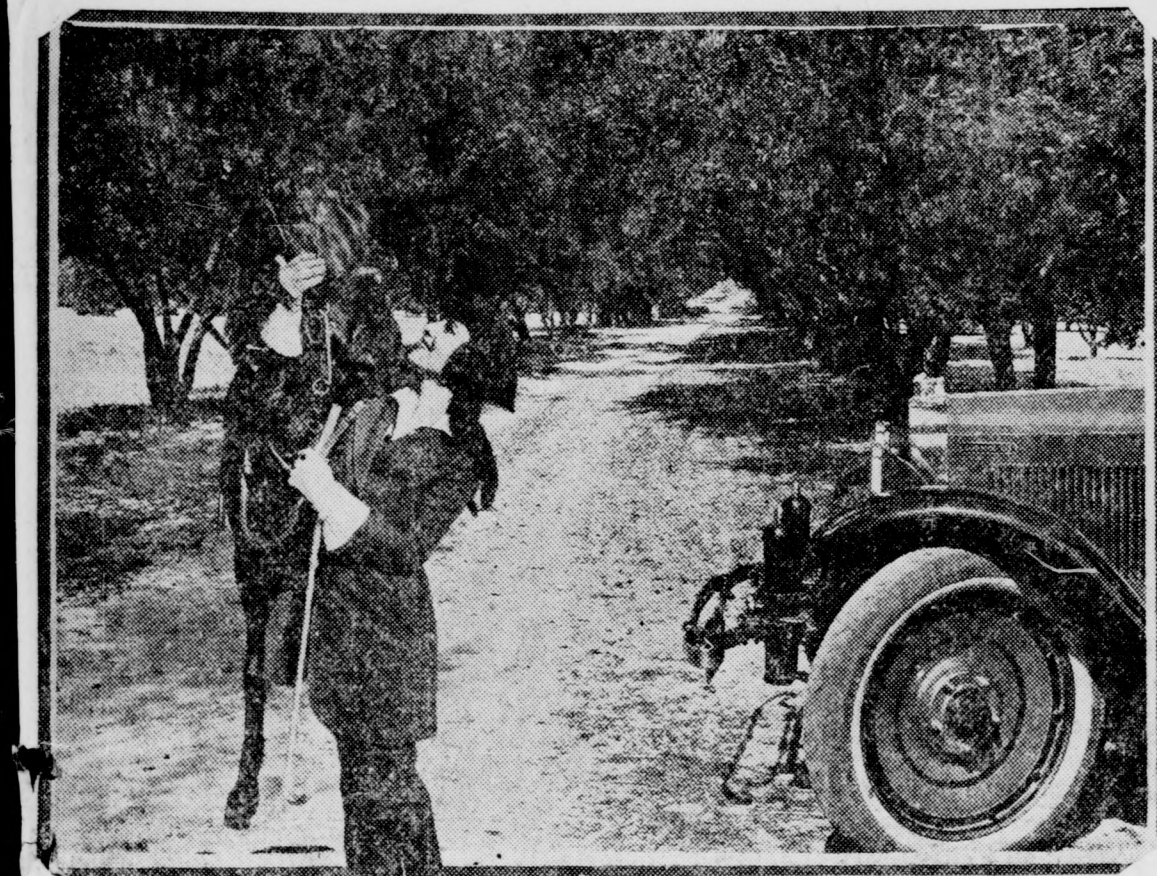

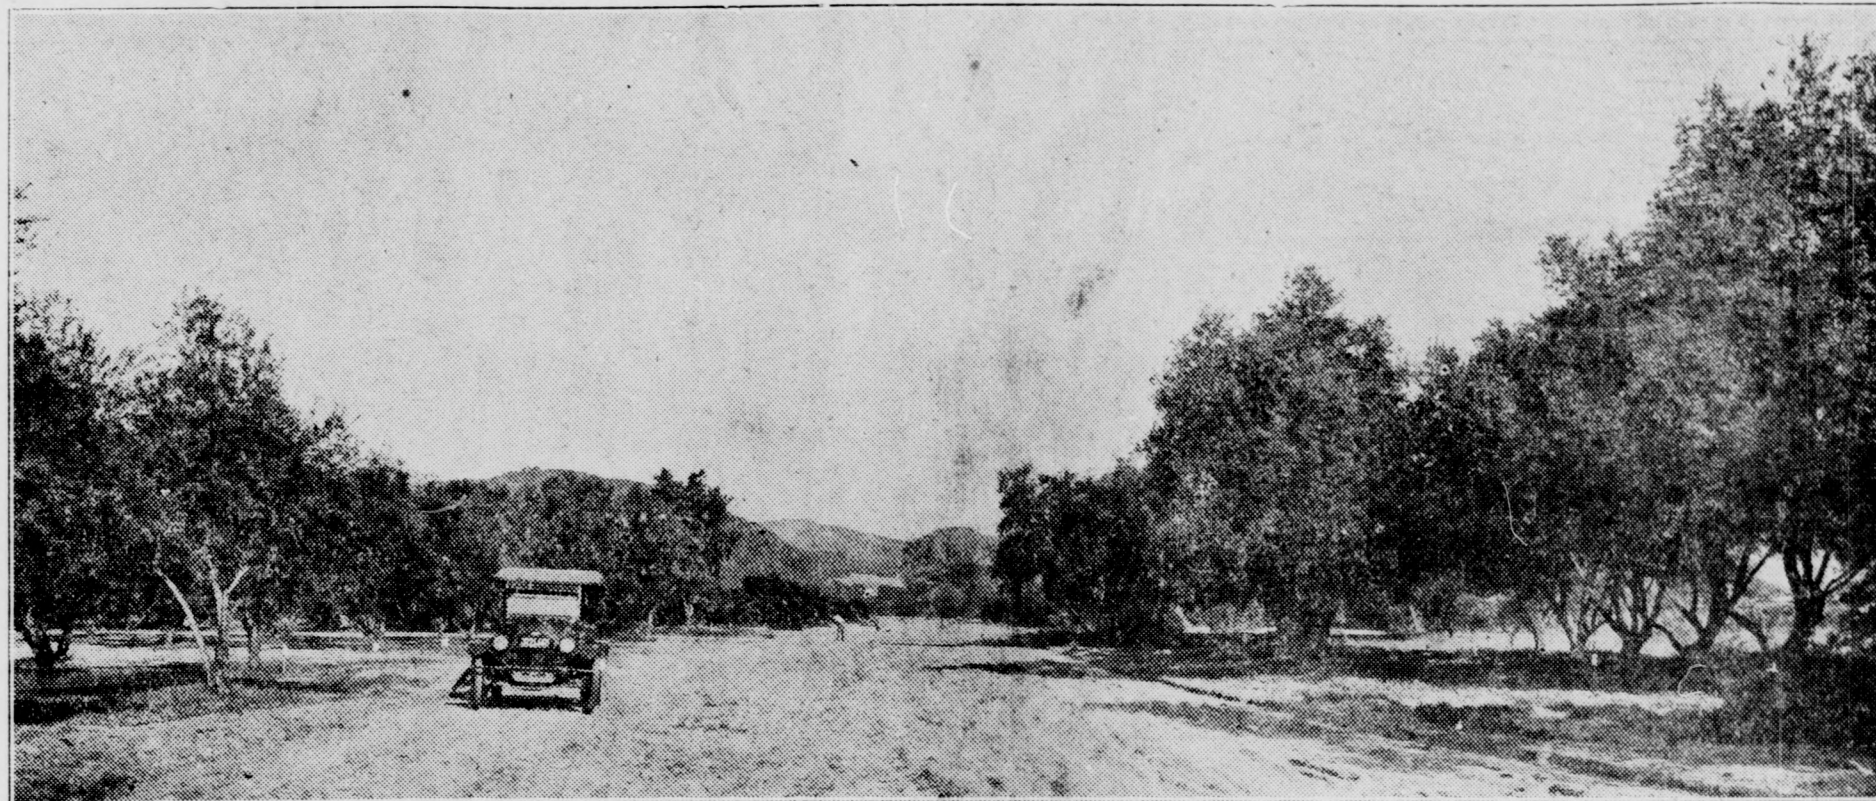

Glendale will have reason to be proud of this new distinctive and artistic home community.

REALTY BOARDS TO MEET IN "CHI"

April 13 and 14 in Chicago are the dates set for a meeting of the board of directors and advisory board of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. W. L. Hollingsworth of Los Angeles, a past president of the Los Angeles realty board is one of the directors.

At this session the business affairs of the national association will be considered, and reports will be received from the chairmen of standing and special committees. The chairmen of the seven divisions of the national association will also report on the progress which they have made with regard to their respective divisions during the last three months. Plans for the Cleveland convention, June 27-30 will be gone over thoroughly. Indications point to a record gathering of realtors and the directors desire to leave nothing undone in the formulation of effective preliminary planning.

SPARR HEIGHTS IS A BIG HELP SAYS HATCH

The Sparr Heights development is a source of great satisfaction to the Glendale-Montrose railway, says Superintendent Hatch, not only because of the increased passenger traffic it is bringing the line but also because of the increase that has already taken place in freight and that is promised by the building up of what has been until so recently, a dead haul. Mr. Hatch says about ten carloads of lumber a month are going over the line to Montrose and La Crescenta.

G. M. Railway Has Built in Eagle Rock

The Glendale-Montrose Railway Company has completed the construction of a pretty little station in Eagle Rock, where connection is made with the Los Angeles Railway line. A refreshments counter within it has been leased and a soda fountain installed.

MICHEL TO BUILD IN EAGLE ROCK

Glen Court is the name given by Henry Michel, owner and builder, to the largest court scheme of home construction yet undertaken in Eagle Rock City. He purchased a tract fronting on Colorado boulevard, which formed a part of the Alban Reeves estate, and will construct upon it twelve high-class stucco houses with tile roofs, each costing $6,000, with a court street 100 feet wide between the two rows.

IT IS EASY TO OWN A HOME HERE

"It is my belief that there would be far less vacant property in the city of Glendale if the owners of this property were conversant with building and building finance conditions," said a prominent builder recently.

"We read that building permits are running into the millions of dollars, that thousands of new homes, apartments, flats, hotels and bungalow courts were constructed during the past twelve months, but have you tried to rent a place to live in since January 1 of this year?"

"What is the housing situation today? It is really worse than it was a year ago. There are at least two good reasons for the lack of homes."

"First, you and I come to Glendale, became wedded to its climate and its opportunities."

"It is but natural that we solicit the citizenship of our friends and acquaintances."

"They come, the chain grows link by link but the building operations fail to keep up with the influx of new citizens."

"Second, there are a lot of potential builders who are not conversant with the building situation as it now prevails, or who are unacquainted with available sources of building finance. Therefore they do not build."

"Anyone who owns a clear piece of property can readily obtain all the money needed for conservative building operations at reasonable rates."

"The banks loan up to 40 percent of the value of the lot plus cost of construction on first mortgage security at 6 to 7 percent interest. Their property appraisals are naturally very conservative and oftentimes the lot owner is disappointed when he finds that the lot which he knows is readily saleable at a certain price, is given a bank appraisal of but 50 to 75 percent of this price."

"Again, the banks base their estimates of building costs on the 1914 prices, plus approximately 25 percent."

"As materials and labor are 50 percent or more higher than 1914 prices, the bank's loan represents about 20 to 30 percent of the actual sales value of the property."

"Real estate loan brokers loan up to 50, sometimes 60, percent of the property."

"They charge a commission of 3 to 5 percent for building loans which generally run three years and carry 7 to 8 percent interest, except the amounts of over $25,000 when lower interest rates are sometimes available."

"If a property is worth $20,000 and one builds a $30,000 building, he can usually obtain a loan of about $15,000 to $17,000 from the bank and $2,000 to $2,500 from the broker."

"If he does not have the rest of the building money than a second mortgage or trust deed must be floated."

"These, as a rule, are subject to a discount of from 10 to 25 percent and carry about 8 percent interest."

"A note to cover the second money is given, which has a face value of about $150 to the thousand higher than the amount actually received."

"Gradually the second mortgage or trust deed is amortized. Several organizations will completely finance the cost of construction where they do the building."

"The property owner who deals with them should insist on the job being bonded and should be reasonably certain that his income is, or will be, sufficient to cover all payments on the second mortgage, all interest, taxes, insurance, assessments and maintenance."

CAN YOU SELECT LUMBER FOR HOME?

To the average home-builder lumber is just lumber, something which they know is necessary for building purposes, but their knowledge of the various kinds and grades of lumber is almost nil.

When a man builds a house he expects, and should get, material that will render him utmost service and give him a durable, permanent building.

Unfortunately, the keen demand for homes in Southern California, coupled with the desire on the part of contractor or builders to make all the profit possible out of their construction, has resulted in the use of grades of lumber which were never intended to be used in constructing the average home.

One thing the home builder, or home buyer, needs to make sure of is that his home is constructed of lumber which is of a grade intended for use in constructing permanent buildings, for framing, such as studding, joists, sheathing, etc.

He should insist on a grade of what is known as No. 1 Common or Merchantable.

This will give him good, sound lumber, suitable in every way for home building. Unless he is careful, however, he may be induced by a supposed saving of $50 to $75 or more to accept a lower grade, known to the trade as No. 3 stock, imperfectly manufactured, unsound, with streaks of rot, large loose knots, etc., which, when put in the building, will speedily commence to deteriorate, causing in a year or two cracked walls and other defects, giving him a building which will not render the service he ought to get, and in the end his supposed saving will turn out to be a decided liability.

While the lower first cost of unsound and imperfectly manufactured lumber may be an inducement, it almost invariably increases the labor cost of the building in addition to lowering the value and life of the structure. If the builder keeps account of the extra wastage and extra labor caused by the use of low-grade lumber he will speedily discover that the difference in costs between it and good, sound Common is more than used up.

There is a use for low-grade lumber in out-buildings, temporary structures, etc. Its use in this class of building is desirable and will effect a saving, but otherwise it is the most expensive.

In finishing a home a great deal depends on the amount of money the owner desires to spend.

If he decides on a painted job he can use No. 2 Clear to advantage, as long as it is dry and perfectly machined.

For natural or oil finish he needs strictly clear, bone dry stock.

If material is not dry, shrinkage will soon open up the joints and spoil the appearance of the home.

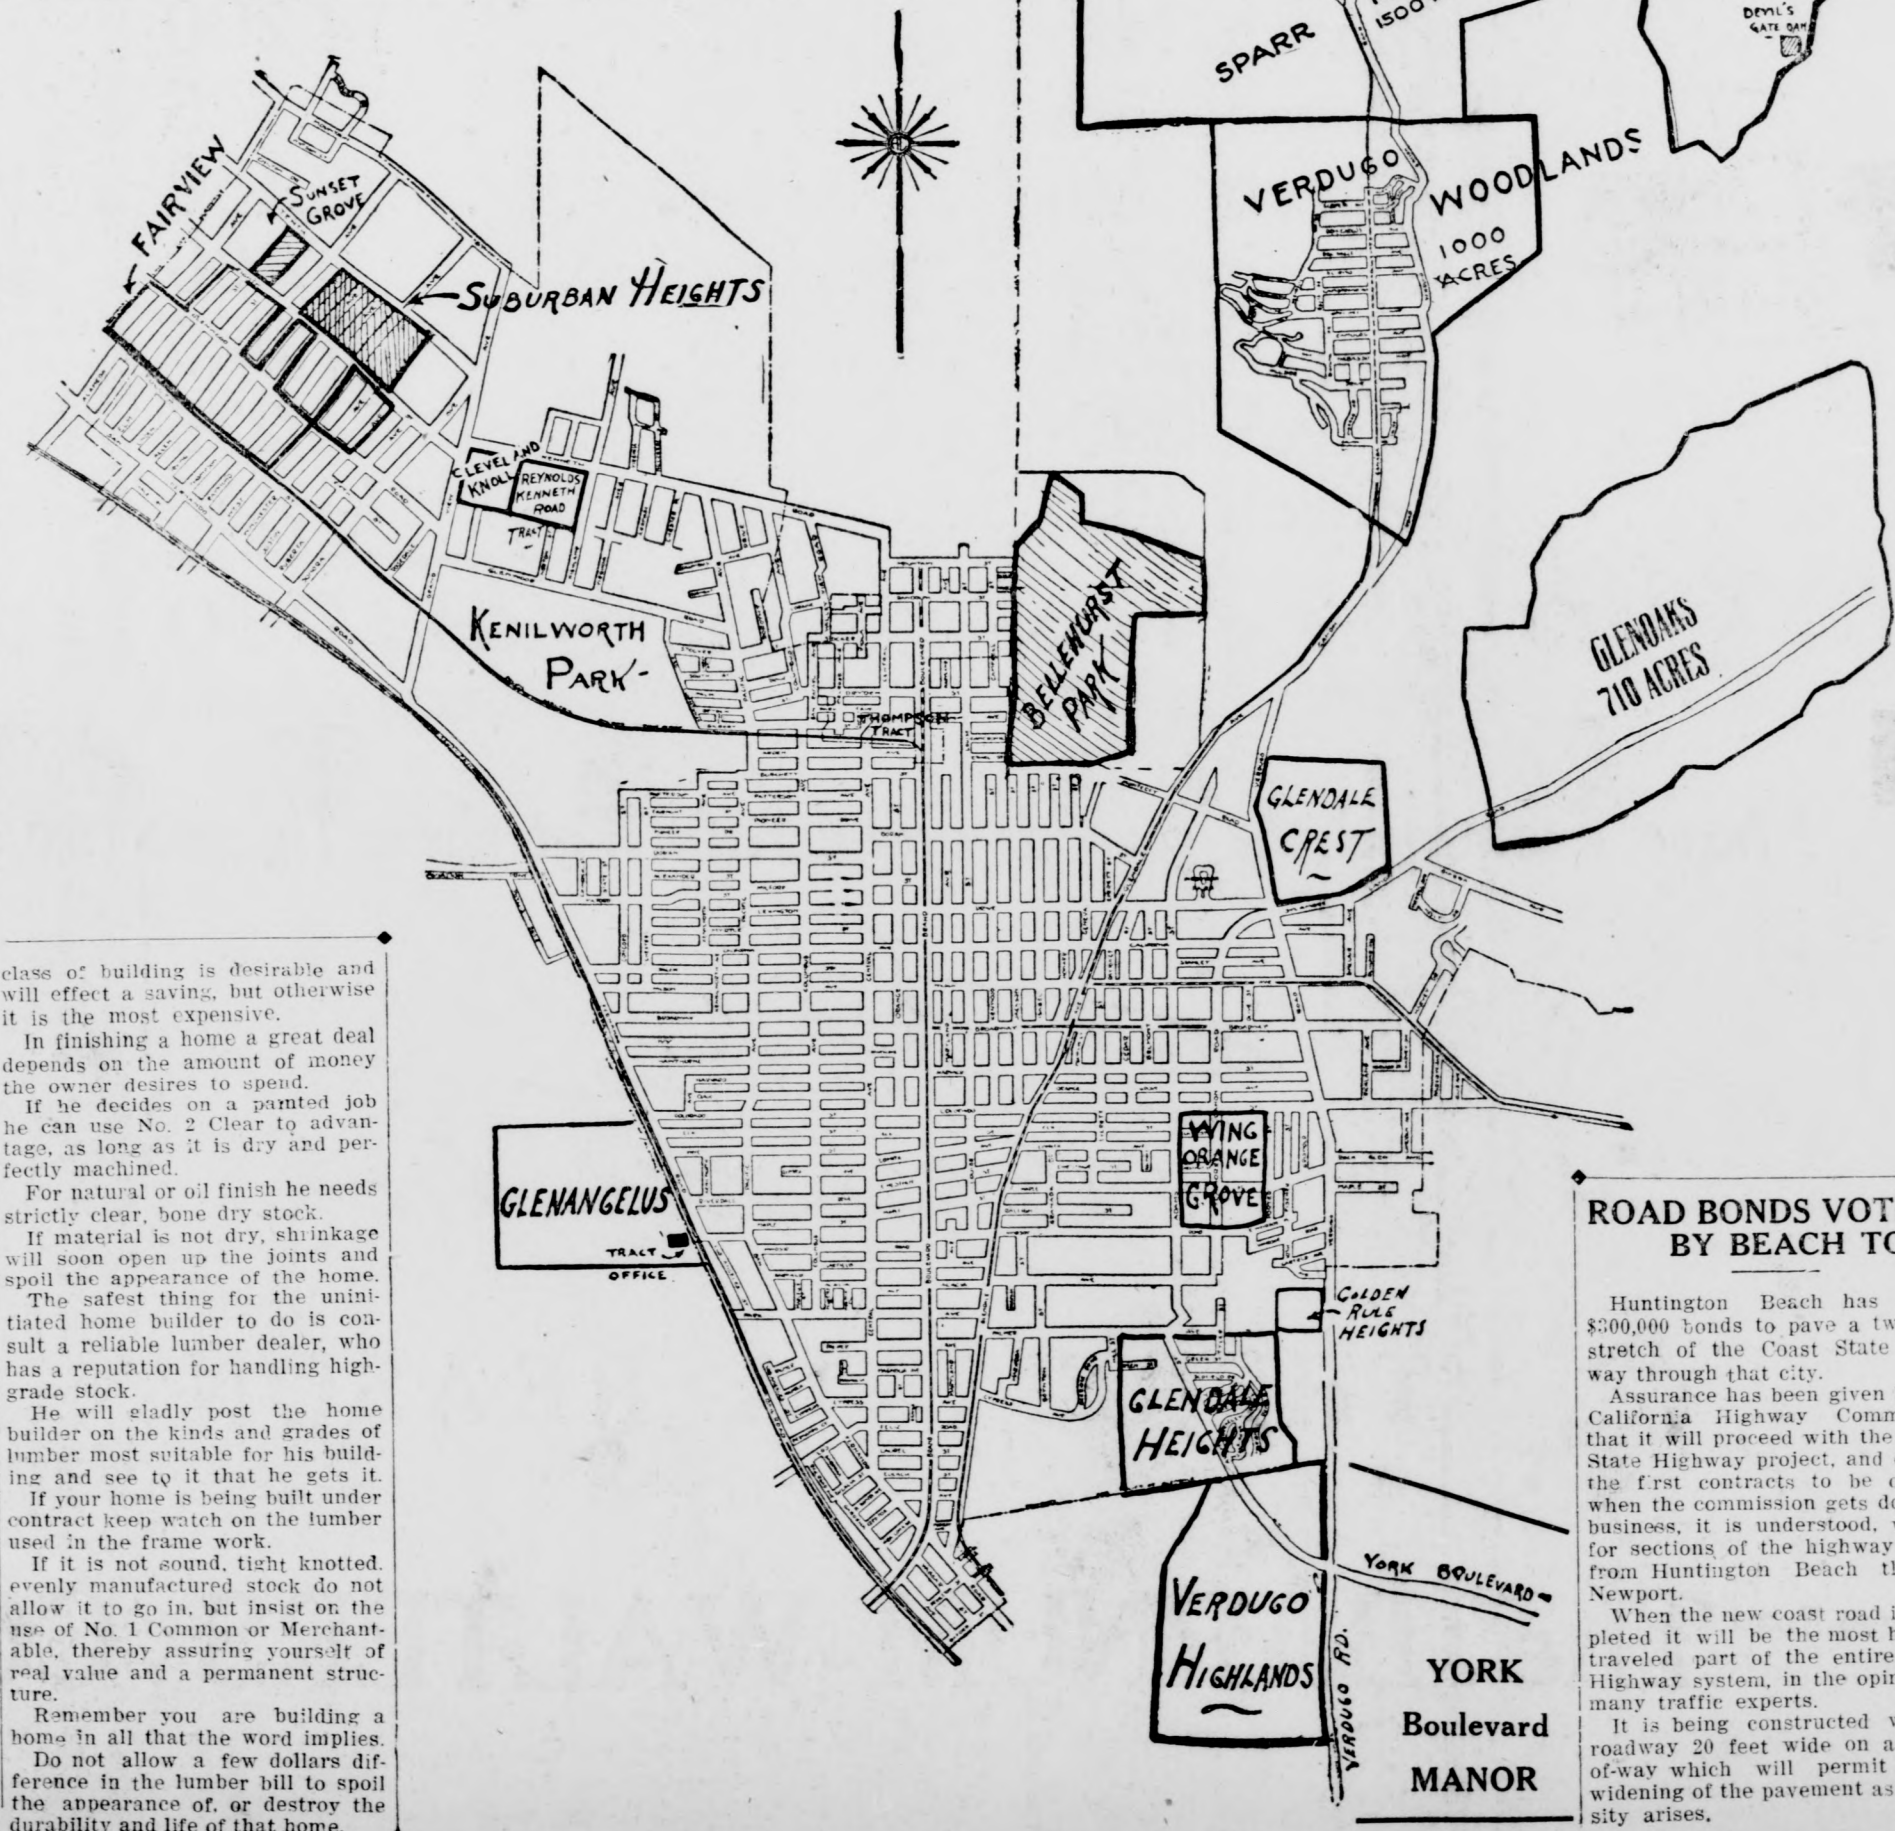

The safest thing for the uninitiated home builder to do is consult a reliable lumber dealer, who has a reputation for handling high-grade stock.

He will gladly post the home builder on the kinds and grades of lumber most suitable for his building and see to it that he gets it.

If your home is being built under contract keep watch on the lumber used in the frame work.

If it is not sound, tight knotted, evenly manufactured stock do not allow it to go in, but insist on the use of No. 1 Common or Merchantable, thereby assuring yourself of real value and a permanent structure.

Remember you are building a home in all that the word implies. Do not allow a few dollars difference in the lumber bill to spoil the appearance of, or destroy the durability and life of that home.

ROAD BONDS VOTED BY BEACH TOWN

Huntington Beach has voted $300,000 bonds to pave a two-mile stretch of the Coast State Highway through that city.

Assurance has been given by the California Highway Commission that it will proceed with the Coast State Highway project, and one of the first contracts to be offered when the commission gets down to business, it is understood, will be for sections of the highway south from Huntington Beach through Newport.

When the new coast road is completed it will be the most heavily traveled part of the entire State highway system, in the opinion of many traffic experts.

It is being constructed with a roadway 20 feet wide on a right-of-way which will permit of the widening of the pavement as necessity arises.

LUMBER DEMAND IS NORMAL, SAYS LUMBERMAN

Demand for lumber, which so far this year has been substantially above normal and during January rose to a heretofore unequalled peak, has subsided until it is again approximately normal, says the American Lumberman, Chicago.

This appears to be a full before another spurt of demand to high levels, expected to come during spring, with its stimulation of building operations and outdoor work in general.

While a boom is not in prospect, spring building promises to assume a heavy volume in cities and towns practically throughout the country. The outlook for country trade has improved considerably, though any great activity in this may be postponed until later in the year, when farmers have completed their field work.

Retail stocks in the cities are only fair and in the country districts are generally poor, and in whatever volume building may develop the retailers will be forced to buy extensively. Their policy is one of caution, however, and they are not likely to enter the market freely for another few weeks, until they have had opportunity definitely to ascertain just what the requirements in their respective communities will be.

Industrial trade holds up strong, with no prospects of early reduction. To the contrary, the arrival of spring will bring increased activities in some branches, as for instance, in railroad construction work, for which extensive plans have been prepared.

The steady rise of lumber production toward normal is gratifying in view of the intense stock scarcity in all producing sections and the heavy order files at the mills. Little headway has as yet been made in clearing up these order files, on account of long-continued strong demand and unfavorable operating conditions, and most mills have enough business on hand to keep them busy for the next thirty to ninety days. The market under such conditions holds firm at recent established price levels. Some transit cars are being disposed of at slightly easier prices, these being sold readily, and there is no such pressure on the market as would lead to a material decline in prices.

Recent changes in mill prices have been mostly upward, but their comparative infrequency and unimportance indicate that the market is becoming definitely stabilized.

JAPAN APPROPRIATES FOR ROADS

TOKIO, March 31.—The Japanese government contemplates spending 300,000,000 yen, or approximately $150,000,000, during the next 30 years to improve the roads of the empire. This includes the new Yokohama-Tokio and Osaka-Kobe automobile roads now under construction, which will eventually form part of a main road connecting Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya, Kyoto, Osaka and Kobe, the width of which will be 36 feet near the cities and 30 feet in the country.

At present motoring in Japan is difficult owing to the narrowness of the roads and the fact that they pass through thickly populated villages.

MRS. BERGDOLL HELPS JAIL PETTY SWINDLER

PHILADELPHIA, March 31.—Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, who fought so hard to keep her draft-dodging sons out of prison, aided in sending an alleged petty swindler to the county jail for eight months.

Sylvan Scene at Flintridge — Where the City Meets the Country

"A hundred miles from town in fifteen minutes." That is the way one enthusiastic visitor to Flintridge during the past week described this popular residence suburb. And so great is the contrast between it and the city that the scores of Glendale people who know and love Flintridge will appreciate the significance of the above statement.

Its comparative seclusion from the rest of the busy world makes Flintridge a highly desirable residence center.

Rolling hills and vales, groves of great oaks, sycamores and willows, and the rugged beauties of the uplands present views that are a constant delight to the eye.

Despite its unique location surrounded by natural beauties, Flintridge is just a few minutes drive from the heart of Glendale. Perhaps that is one of the reasons for its transformation in recent years from a scenic park to a community of artistic homes.

The present activity at Flintridge is centered in the erection of homes, some of which are now on sale. A ready market for these has developed, due to the fact that many people prefer homes already completed and ready for occupancy. The Flintridge model home is daily attracting scores of visitors. This little gem is cleverly designed and very tastefully furnished and should prove a source of new ideas on interior arrangement to all who visit it.

Riverside Realtors to Meet May 12

Realtors of the Southern California Real Estate association will hold their third annual picnic at Riverside Saturday, May 12, according to announcement today by President W. E. Stephens of the picnic association. Last year the annual outing was at Long Beach, and the year before at Santa Ana.

President Stephens announced the following tentative program:

"Our plans are to meet at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, May 12, at the Mission Inn and register and go through this famous hotelery. An hour later we will motor to the top of Mount Rubidoux and get a view of the Riverside valley. Then we will drive to Fairmont Park and have our basket dinner and our speaking. Our program of athletics, including a ball game, races, wrestling, and jumping, will be pulled off at the fair grounds. In the evening we will arrange to hold a picnic dance at the Elks' hall. How does this sound for a big day?"

President Frazier O. Reed of the State association will be the guest of honor at this picnic, and will make the principal address.

Realtors from Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino, Imperial, San Diego, Ventura and Santa Barbara counties will be the guests of Riverside county on that big day. I. S. Logan, secretary of the Riverside Realty Board, is secretary of the picnic association.

In order to grow old gracefully a woman must cultivate the art.

CLEVELAND KNOLL ATTRACTS HOME SEEKER

Exclusive North-West Property Is Being Rapidly Snapped Up

Cleveland Knolls, in the heart of the exclusive northwest, is attracting many of the better class of buyers who want a homeplace that is out of the ordinary.

This is a tract which is "right." The property itself is high class. The improvements that have been installed could not be improved upon. Everything is there that the homebuilder wants. A grand, wide street has been cut through the property, this extending from Kennedy road to Glenwood road, and on either side of this the wonderful homesites are located.

Nothing in the way of cheap homes will be allowed on this tract. The dwellings to be constructed will range in price from $4,500 to $10,000, and some of them may go higher.

Cleveland Knolls is a tract for the discriminating home owner. It is a tract fit for a king.

LUMBER EXPORTS ARE INCREASING

Exports of lumber from the port of Vancouver are showing a monthly increase over last year or nearly 4,000,000 feet, totaling some 15,000,000 feet, says Consul General F. W. Ryder, in a report to the Department of Commerce. The mills are working full time, some with night shifts, and orders are booked for the next three months, and further business is in view for the spring and summer cuts. Active buying for the Atlantic coast market was experienced in the early part of the year, lumber yard stocks having been purchased at attractive prices.

Frequent inquiries are received from Japan to determine prices at which lumber may be ordered for shipment during the next few months. The mills have been busy with Australian and Atlantic Coast business to such an extent that the usual orders for "Japanese squares" do not prove attractive or even desirable. There has been practically no new business in the export of cedar logs but a general movement of other logs is noted.

The Australian market continues to absorb quantities of lumber, mills are running to capacity three months in advance on these orders and every available foot of space on vessels operating on this run has been chartered far ahead. Even a larger volume of buying is expected from Australia and it is stated that the mills are anticipating higher prices.

FRANK MELINE CO. BIG ASSET TO GLENDALE

The entrance of the Frank Meline company, one of the principal real estate firms of Southern California, into Glendale, marks a step forward for this city, for wherever the Meline company goes there follows a trail of good roads, unusually high class improvements, excellently laid out tracts and satisfied customers. No subdividing or selling company in Southern California has a higher reputation than has the Frank Meline company. Probably no concern has done more for the upbuilding of Southern California in general. It has been ever on the lookout for anything that would tend to enhance the value of the southern end of the state.

From the head of the firm down to the youngest salesman the Frank Meline company is a regular sure-fire booster. It sings the praises of Southern California in general 24 hours a day. It is a firm that believes there is nothing too good for this end of the state, and this belief it carries out in its every move.

Besides being selling agent for the wonderful Glenoaks tract, formerly known as Scholl canyon, the Frank Meline company has charge of the selling of quite a number of other subdivisions in and around Los Angeles.

When speaking of Glendale and the Glenoaks tract recently, Mr. Meline said: "It is with a great deal of satisfaction that we are breaking into Glendale. For years we have wanted to take up some work in this city, but the press of work elsewhere has prevented us from doing so."

"We believe Glendale is one of the most wonderful cities in the entire world. That is saying a great deal, but it is a fact that no one can deny. Every feature of this city is above the average. In addition to being extremely beautiful, it is a city the residents of which are determined shall stay clean. That fact is of the greatest importance when the 'home' feature is being considered."

"Glenoaks is one of the most charming tracts we have ever handled. Within fifteen minutes after looking over the valley for the first time we decided to take the selling agency for this subdivision. Nothing can compare with it around this section. It has everything that the homeowner could wish. It is, in my estimation, an ideal home tract."

WINTER MAKING OF BRICKS IS AT HEIGHT

With nearly one-third of the brick plants in the United States shut down, largely for seasonal reasons, the winter production is at the highest mark that it has been in recent years, says a report issued March 1.

Brick manufacturers throughout most sections of the country face the coming building season with confidence, and are producing to the maximum of their ability under existing weather conditions.

The one section of the United States which still lags behind in building is the agricultural district, just west of the Mississippi, centering in Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska.

In all other sections an unusual amount of winter work has been going on, and the demand for brick is larger than a year ago, and expected to be in a few of the most important building centers, even exceeds the phenomenal demand in the early months of 1920.

The report of the members of the Common Brick Manufacturers' association, made last month, indicates that the market is now in the healthiest condition it has experienced since before the war.

The situation is much more favorable than in 1920, for labor, fuel and shipping conditions are far better.

Of the plants closed down at the present time the majority are "summer" yards, not equipped to operate in cold weather.

A number are closed for repairs and there are probably more extensions to plans being made than in any recent year.

A few plants are closed on account of car shortage.

It is the view of a considerable number of manufacturers that the cost of production is increasing. This, as usual, is due to increased labor cost, and increased fuel cost.

The composite price, according to all manufacturers reporting at the present time, is $14.45 per thousand.

This is the first month in which there has been shown an increase in price of any amount during more than a year.

The peak price is found in the East and along the Atlantic seaboard, where $20 is the maximum reported. The lowest price is in Oklahoma and Texas, where current overproduction has resulted in some sales as low as $7 per thousand.

With no immediate danger of a coal shortage the manufacturers as a rule anticipate that they will be able to sell brick during the building season of 1923 at prices no higher than prevailed during 1922, although the demand may be greater and the supply in some sections may be inadequate.

REALTORS HEAR OF SANITARIUM LOTS

The Glendale Realty Board has been given exclusive right among the real estate operators in Glendale in the selling of the lots in the Sanitarium tract on Broadway, between Isabel and Jackson streets. This fact was made known at the meeting of the realty board at noon yesterday, by Guy M. Rush, selling agent for the tract.

Mr. Rush stated that the northeast corner of Isabel and Broadway, being 110 feet on Broadway, has been purchased by Charles C. Andrews and H. H. Cotton, and the northeast corner of Broadway and Jackson street, this also being 110 feet on Broadway, has been secured by Walter Leimert. It is expected that these buyers intend to improve their holdings at an early date. The method of the sale of the lots, the prices and other features, were explained by Mr. Rush to the realtors.

Mr. Kimlin, business manager of the sanitarium, stated that the buildings his organization are Australia, Japan, India, South Africa and Ireland are all demanding supplies of California tree seeds, reports the San Francisco office of the United States forest service. Seeds collected from the National forests of the state are being used to fill the orders.

erecting in East Glendale will cost about $600,000.

A resolution was passed endorsing Pasadena as the place for the 1924 realtors' state convention. Three books at $1 each, for the merchants' exposition, were ordered purchased by the board.

It was announced at the meeting that a special train will be run from Los Angeles to Cleveland for those wishing to attend the national convention at that place in June.

The announcement was made that two days prior to the election on the bonds for the airport, six airplanes will drop 20,000 dogtags boosting the purchase of that property. Four-minute talks will be made in the different theaters, and stickers favoring the bonds will be provided for automobiles.

BUILDING BOOM IS ON AT WING TRACT

The building campaign is on at the Wing Orange Grove tract, on East Colorado street.

Eight homes, ranging in value from $4,000 to $6,000, were started this week—and this is only a beginner. As many more dwellings will be commenced within the next ten days.

There are only 20 lots remaining unsold in this tract. Every one of these lots constitutes an opportunity for a homesite and investment such as the people of Glendale and surrounding country will not have again for a long time. After this tract has been sold out there will be many prospective home owners who will say: "I wish I had bought a lot in the Wing tract."

There are a few chances left to ward off this expression of regret, but those chances are slipping rapidly away.

If you have occasion to tell a man what you really think of him, use a long-distance telephone.

BUS LINE SOON TO START IN GLENOAKS

Frequent Service to Glendale and 5-Cent Car to L. A. Is Promised

Beginning Monday morning a 25-passenger bus will ply between the business section of Glendale and Glenoaks, that wonderful tract in Scholl canyon, and also between Glenoaks and the yellow car line in Los Angeles at Glassell station. This bus will be operated by an experienced driver, who will extend every courtesy to those riding on this line.

This step is being taken to bring Glenoaks closer to the people of Glendale, Los Angeles and the surrounding communities. The owners of this tract know absolutely that if the people of Southern California become acquainted with the beauties of charming Glenoaks, it will be simply a question of signing receipts for deposits on pieces of property in that valley. The call for property in that tract has thus far been extremely encouraging. It has exceeded the fondest hopes. Glenoaks has hardly been opened, but still several dozen pieces of property have been sold. Practically everyone who visits the tract determines to purchase one of the unsurpassed homesites at an early date.

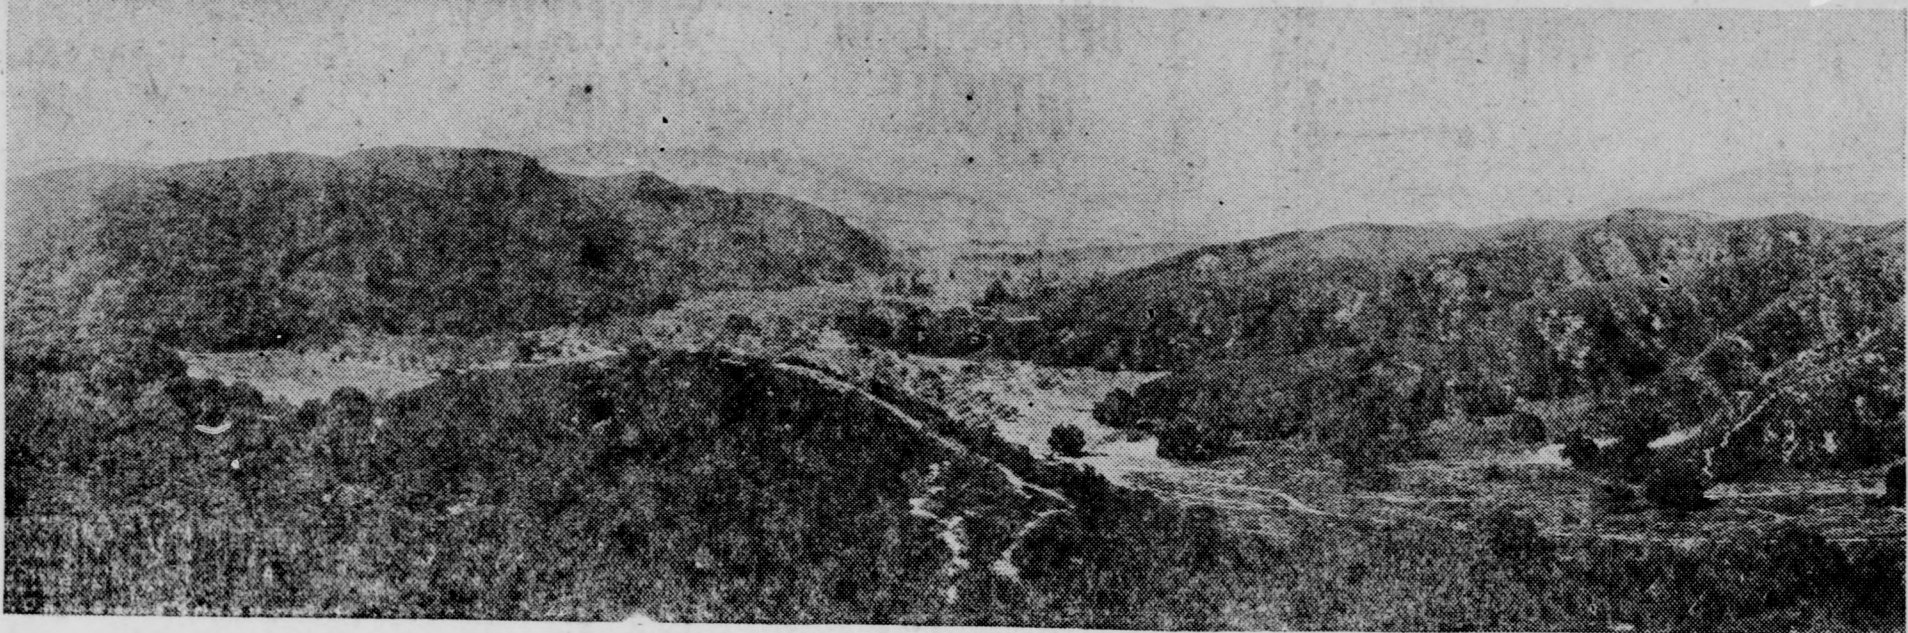

The bus to be established is not a temporary proposition. It will be kept running for at least five years, which means that it probably never will be taken off. This fact is extremely important to the buyers of property in this tract. The very act of providing efficient transportation for those securing homesites increases the value of the lots immensely. The bus will be on regular schedule time, which will make it extremely convenient for those fortunate enough to "get in" on one or more of the lots of this tract.

The managers of Glenoaks have decided to establish a business district in the tract. This will consist of 43 lots and will be located immediately to the west of the two acres that the company has given to the city as a park. Some of these lots face on the 70-foot boulevard which will be built entirely through the tract from west to east. The whole business district will be located north of this highway.

The lots in this business section are being sold for from $400 to $600 and a number of them have already been disposed of. The prospects are that the entire business section will have been disposed of within two or three weeks. The fact that these will be the only business lots in the entire canyon makes them an unusually attractive business investment.

A 20 per cent discount on the selling price of the lots in Glenoaks is being given to a limited number of purchasers in the event that the buyers build within thirty days after ter all of the public utilities such as water, light and gas, have been installed. This will bring the prices paid for the lots way down below anything that could possibly have been dreamed of.

The elevation of this tract is one of the most attractive features of the subdivision. The tract office is 300 feet higher than the business district of Glendale. It "looks down" on practically every tract within the city of Glendale. In fact, the tract manager stated this morning that Glenoaks has the highest elevation of any subdivision within the city.

Then there are the oaks—such wonderful oaks! The oaks alone on many of these lots are worth far more than the prices paid for the pieces. To the man who wants a real homeplace, where he can rest after the duties of the day, these oaks are of inestimable value. They are the features that make the lots in this tract "different."

Hascall S. Hall, manager of Glenoaks, says he becomes more enthusiastic over that tract every day he stays on the tract. He has never seen anything like it before, and it is, he declared, the most desirable residential property he has ever handled. Many of those calling at the property share Mr. Hall's enthusiasm about the tract.

GEN. WOOD FAVORS AID FOR FILIPINO CHILDREN

(By Associated Press)

MANILA, P. I., March 29.—At the annual meeting of the American Guardian association, the aim of which is to aid dependent children born of American fathers and Filipino mothers in the Philippines, Governor General Wood, honorary president of the association, said he was greatly pleased to see the manner in which the organization had taken hold of its work and expressed his gratification that it was giving the children a chance to make good in life.

BURBANK SHOWS DO YOU CHERISH GREAT GROWTH OLD TIME IN TWO YEARS HOME?

Astounding figures depicting community growth in Southern California are getting to be the ordinary thing. But a record which is declared eclipses almost any precedent, is that of Burbank, which in two short years has grown from a population of 2900 to more than 8500, according to recent estimates.

It is this sensational expansion which, it is claimed, fully justifies the ambitious plans underlying the development of Benmar Hills, a beautiful tract that takes in the western part of Burbank and extends from San Fernando boulevard to the Verdugo hills. These plans call for a complete control of Burbank's development along lines that will evolve a model American city of at least 100,000 people.

The logical direction for the growth of Burbank is toward the west, which is precisely where Benmar Hills lies. This expansion is already taking form, the city having erected its new $250,000 high school on a Benmar Hills lot and chosen sites for a civic center, public parks and recreation grounds and sanctioned the street system laid out for Benmar Hills. Street improvements are reported as progressing rapidly at Benmar Hills, while property there is selling rapidly. All the business and commercial sites are taken and residence lots are being selected in numbers.

established, and said many people in the United States were becoming interested in the association.

"I cherish my childish loves, the memory of that warm little nest where my affections were fledged." If that memory goes back to an English style home, then fancy centers around a hospitable Georgia doorway with brass or iron knockers that always opened to let those who entered enjoy the cordial happiness within.

Built along rectangular lines we generally find a spacious center hall with ample stairway and opening off of it several rooms conveniently grouped.

Much license is being taken today in the decoration of this type of home. Frequently fusing wrought iron, marble and plaster into the hall and sun room, striking distinctive Italian notes and thus adding to the composition a restful charm. A hall of this kind may have its lighting fixtures, stair rail and consoles of wrought iron and with good taste add a floor clock, high back chairs and a chest, etc.

It is nice to find the living room and dining room paneled and in each a fireplace, and to arrange these rooms in English types of furniture so grouped that they form definite centers of interest.

The floors would be well treated with Oriental rugs and the windows to have glass curtains of gauze and the draperies of velvet, brocade or damask.

The library should, of all rooms, be restful and contain those accessories that are necessary for reading and research. This room should be exceptionally well lighted and contain thoughtfully filled bookshelves, a globe, a library table, a good sized desk, that they may reflect the individuality of the owner and bring out that inspiration for which they were created.

With the English home the formal nower and vegetable garden form a veritable part of the plan and should be so developed to give the out-of-door happiness needed, with a pool fountain, sun dial, bird bath, hedge, shrubbery and trees.

STUCCO POINTERS GIVEN BY EXPERT

Here are some pointers on stucco work:

In order to obtain a good job of stucco consideration must be given to the structural features of the building to which it is applied.

Care must be taken to see that no rain or other water can possibly get behind the stucco, through cracks, around window or door openings; that sufficient overhang must be given the roof to protect the upper edge of the stucco. Thus the first responsibility for good stucco rests upon the designer of the house.

The second responsibility rests upon the plasterer, since no matter what materials are used it will be impossible to obtain satisfactory stucco unless the utmost care is used in its application.

It has been said and no doubt with truth, that proper workmanship is over 50 per cent of good stucco.

The third responsibility rests upon the material used and the method of application which we propose to describe. A frame building should be thoroughly covered with a good roofing felt, starting at the bottom and lapping at least two inches as you go to the top.

On this should be applied a metal reinforcement (any good open mesh metal lath or chicken wire), which should be furred out at least three-eighths of an inch from the roofing felt, and in every instance all joints should be well lapped and tied together thus creating a continuous reinforcement over the whole surface to be plastered.

Then a mortar composed of one part of cement to which has been added 10 per cent of hydrated lime and three parts of clean, sharp sand, should be shoveled thoroughly through the reinforcement, so as to form solidly against the roofing felt.

Scratch this coat and let dry two weeks, if possible.

Then a second coat of the same mortar as specified for the first coat, should be put on to a thickness of at least one-half inch over the face of the first coat.

Mexican Lumber Production Grows

According to the estimates of lumber producers and dealers, the production of lumber in Mexico is now approximately 750,000,000 feet, and another producer has just begun operations with the expectation of cutting from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 feet per month. The largest producer at present is cutting between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 feet. Most of the lumber is at present being cut in the States of Mexico, Michigan and adjoining states.

The high freight rates prevailing in Mexico have tended toward confining the market for lumber produced in the central part of the country to the region adjacent.

When a shiftless man dies it leaves his wife of much responsibility.

NO FOREST FIRE PEOPLE OF U. S. WEEK IS NAMED ARE SLOW TO LEARN

The following announcement has just been received from Charles H. Shinn, of the United States Forest Service:

Since President Harding has issued a proclamation naming April 22-28 as Forest Protection Week it is up to every American, young and old, to cooperate heart and soul. Where does one best begin? The answer is, "With what is nearest to you," dear reader of these lines. Get acquainted in the coming months with the nearest forest workers, both state and national, and read more of the pamphlets, bulletins and leaflets sent by the Forest Service and other agencies. Become an active helper in the work of the American Forestry Association, whose magazine, American Forestry, is one of the best things published anywhere.

Here in California let us help along the work of the Sierra Club, the "Save the Redwoods League" and the State Forester. Above all else, let us get firm hold of that central fact of modern civilization that we must have more and better forest protection if we are to keep going ahead toward bigger and better achievements. These things and such as these are what forest protection week means.

It's just as well to remember that it's always well to be just.

George W. Peavy, who is dean of the Oregon School of Forestry, and was formerly in the United States Forest Service, has written a pamphlet on the commercial forests of Oregon in which he gives the real reason for the slowness with which the people of America have waked up to the fatal results of forest destruction. He tells us now the pioneers in the infant colonies along the Atlantic faced what seemed to them a limitless forest and had to fight their way through for two centuries or more. From this came "that peculiar American attitude" which so perplexed the early leaders of forest conservation—the notion that a forest tree is of no consequence, and that any forest can be used or abused just as the individual pleases. It has taken fifty years of tireless effort on the part of such men as the late Dr. Farnow to substitute the ideas of public welfare and the economic importance of forests for this old-time carelessness.

There is still much to be done to educate the present and all coming generations to a full sense of the place of forests in modern civilization. We are at times in serious danger of thinking more of the secondary uses of forest lands than of their primary and permanent value—simply the production of timber. That is the main thing for which they exist.

For the exclusive use of Glenoaks' residents, a bus line will be established connecting with Los Angeles 5-cent car line.

LUMBER IS MOVING STRONG IN CALIFORNIA

California consumed practically 25 per cent of all the lumber that was cut in the two northwestern states in 1922.

Southern California alone took 1,250,000,000 feet and the northern part of the state approximately 750,000,000 feet—an aggregate, in round numbers, of 2,000,000,000 feet.

The total production in Oregon and Washington did not exceed 8,000,000,000 feet, if, indeed, it was that much.

Take the pine production of eastern and southern Oregon and eastern Washington out of the total cut of the two northern states and you reduce the total by a substantial amount.

California buys comparatively little pine from the north, except what comes out of the Klamath region of Oregon in the shape of box shooks; so, since most of California's demand upon the north Pacific States is for Douglas fir and its associate woods, it is probable that this state took fully 30 to 33 per cent of the fir, spruce, hemlock and cedar produced up there.

California, in 1923, probably will have a number of former Seattle friends now in Los Angeles, including Ole Hanson, Bert Farrar and others.

HINTS ARE GIVEN FOR FINANCING DWELLING

Before entering into the discussion of the various methods of financing dwellings, it may be well for us to consider a few of the general aspects of home ownership in the community.

We have, particularly in the territory including and immediately surrounding Glendale, the most wonderful development of home construction in the world.

Our climatic advantages, our heritage of peoples and tastes from widely scattered sections of the United States and from our conquistador and mission predecessors, have fostered a variety and a beauty in residence architecture unequaled elsewhere.

Even the smallest and most modest of homes have a grace in most cases that would not be found among homes of equal cost in other cities of this size.

This attractiveness has a marked effect on the rate of construction of homes and the number of sales of houses.

The inherent desire of every normal family to own its own home is stimulated by the knowledge that our climate and topography permit a wide choice of architectural styles, and even, sometimes unfortunately, a combination of several styles, within almost every cost class.

Our big figures have come from vast numbers of small residences constructed each year; a steady, but constantly increasing growth of home ownership, as to actual numbers of homes.

Yet, astonishing as it may seem to those who have not studied our statistics, we have lost ground, relatively, in the percentage of home ownership.

The purchase of sites, of vacant lots for homes has steadily increased both absolutely and relatively, but the construction of homes themselves has lagged sadly.

A home on almost any terms is better than rent. A home owner is a taxpayer and therefore a more deliberate and discriminating voter.

A home owner is a better employee, a better husband, a better father and a better and more useful citizen of the community in all respects.

Bolshevism and radicalism would be inconceivable in a community the majority of whose families owned their own homes; it is inconceivable even here with only a little over a third owning their own homes.

And our community welfare and future are rendered more secure in direct proportion to the increase in the home ownership.

No matter what's the matter, some people think it doesn't matter.

SPARR HEIGHTS, LOCATED IN HEART OF BEAUTIFUL VERDUGO CANYON, IS GROWING INTO A FULL-SIZED CITY

Home-Seekers, Seeing Advantages of Wonderful Surroundings, Are Losing No Time in Securing Lots in This Tract

"Just keep your eyes upon Sparr Heights," said Mr. Barnum of the Barnum-Walters company, the developers of Sparr Heights, that splendid 1,500-acre tract to the northeast of Glendale, on the Verdugo Road. "Of course, there are real estate subdivisions all over the face of the country round about Los Angeles, but nowhere is there a tract like ours."

"In no other locality is there but a single artery of traffic from the heart of a valley like this, which is the home of several prosperous communities, and nowhere else in this region is there a tract surrounded on three sides by mountains as this is, forming a regular funnel through which the boulevard passes, like the mouth of a funnel, being the only way traffic must move to reach the city."

"Home-builders are quick to see the advantages of being so located that they are surrounded by natural beauty and yet not so far removed from the centers of city life that they may not easily reach them in a few minutes' motor ride. That accounts for the many beautiful homes now springing up in this tract and for the others for which sites have been purchased and for which plans are now being perfected."

"It is a source of deep satisfaction to us that those who live near us and have a realizing sense of the future of our property and have watched its development from the beginning of its subdivision, constitute by far the larger part of our list of buyers. It certainly speaks well for any project that those who know it best have the utmost faith in it. The people of Glendale have visualized the future of Sparr Heights, and as our near neighbors have been our largest investors, we know that they fully understand its certain destiny."

"Business investors have been equally canny, for they appreciate the fact that such a large community as Sparr Heights will be a real town and that there must be a large business center to minister to its needs."

"This recognition is evidenced by the number of commercial buildings that are being constructed along the main boulevard and for others for which the plans are finished and the contracts let."

"Work is to begin immediately on a handsome cafe to be erected on the west side of Verdugo road by Captain J. Hilton Brown of the Engineering Service company. This building is to be unique in design and construction and will be a very attractive feature in the improvement of the tract."

"Directly across the street from

BEAUTIFUL HOME BUILDING FOR NEWCOMER

Plans have been drawn by Charlton & Brainerd and contracts have been let to the Stevens Construction company for a 6-room residence to be built for Mr. Manning at 132 Summer street, Eagle Rock. It is of frame, with hardwood floors and all modern conveniences including gas-steam radiators.

They are also building a 5-room stucco for William Bretholme, of 601 North Howard street, and a double bungalow stucco for a Mr. Knowles of Hollywood.

'HOMES' M'GINNIS IS HERE TO STAY

The building activities in Glendale have attracted additional outside capital, and Burton "Homes" McGinnis has opened what he believes to be the "smallest office with the biggest business" in Glendale. He will make a specialty of financing homes and presents companies with combined assets of nearly $15,000,000, and says he will have plenty of money to finance homes in Glendale, Eagle Rock, Burbank and the adjoining portion of Los Angeles. He will also finance high-class business blocks and apartment buildings.

The "smallest office" is located at the entrance of the Chamber of Commerce building and has a floor area of only four and one-half by eight feet. The furniture was made to order and is finished in a silver gray to match the woodwork of the "office," the balance of which is plate glass, marble and tile.

Mr. McGinnis is an "old timer" in the building and loan field and was formerly secretary of the Economy Building and Loan Association, St. Louis, and secretary-treasurer of the Missouri State League and member of the executive committee of the United States League, and his office is decorated with trophies from some of the national conventions he has attended. He numbers among his friends some of the leading building and loan men of the country and is himself well known in building and loan circles. He is a member of the Glendale Kiwanis Club and chairman of its public affairs committee.

"Homes," as he is known to his fellow club members, stresses the importance of a good design and substantial construction of a home and the recognition of these two factors in making loans. He says it pays the home-builder to have a competent builder with a complete set of plans and specifications.

Glendale is a city of homes and we welcome every agency which promotes home-building, especially better homes.

When a poultry raiser decides to employ natural incubation he must assist nature and the hen to a certain extent.

For example, the nest for sitting hens must be large enough to prevent the eggs from being crowded or piled upon one another. It must be deep enough to protect the eggs from below and to help the hen by holding the warmth about the eggs.

Comfort is a thing that must be carefully considered. The hen must be kept from other hens that might disturb her while sitting. After the hens are disturbed they become nervous and are likely to break the eggs.

Nests for sitting hens can be made in a variety of ways. They should be at least fourteen inches square. Soap boxes answer the purpose very well. A box nine inches to fifteen inches wide and eighteen inches long provides ample room. The entire box should be lined with hay, and there should be a cover over it.

Barrel Nests
Nests made of barrels laid on the side against a post and sheltered from the weather make useful nests for sitting hens and may be used as brooding coops for the hen and her chicks. When not needed for hatching they may be used as coops for the broody hens.

Sitting hens should be nested in the rear part of the barrel and the food and water placed on the outside at the front. When nests are prepared in this way, the eggs are saved from danger and are confined to the nests.

A somewhat more elaborate nest called the combination nest is also useful. It is economical of space and is suitable both for the sitting hen and for her chicks after they are hatched. The boxes may be made singly or in pairs. In the latter nests two hens can be set at the nest two hens can be set at the same time, one on each side. The whole front of this coop should be fastened with hinges at the top to serve as a door. The slats in the front are sliding doors that push up when the doors are closed, and through these doors the chicks can pass in and out of the coop.

Each single coop should be twenty-four inches square and at least two feet high in front. The greater portion of the front is made of wire cloth. Such coops should be placed under shelter.

Many a man leaves the latch string out after barring the door from the inside.

ONE MILLION FOR IMPROVEMENTS TO BE SPENT

Hard-Surface Streets and Winding Drives For Rossmoyne

One of the largest real estate deals ever made in Glendale was concluded during the last week, whereby the Haddock-Nibley company of Los Angeles took over the estate of Judge Erskine M. Ross.

This property, which consists of approximately 800 tracts at the mouth of the Verdugo canyon and radiates for a mile in either direction from the Verdugo road, has over one mile of frontage on Glendale avenue and practically the same amount fronting on Verdugo road. From here it extends to the top of the ridge, connecting with the Verdugo Woodland property. Several hundred acres of this land is now in full bearing orange, lemon and grapefruit trees. A natural canyon extends for nearly a mile in the westerly direction into the heart of the Verdugo mountains. Groves of live oak and sycamore trees add to the beauty of the property. Surmounting the whole, is a high mesa, rising 1000 feet into the air, with a level surface containing some 50 acres.

One million ($1,000,000) dollars is to be spent immediately in beautifying the property. Hard surfaced streets and winding drives are to characterize the general layout.

"Rossmoyne," the "Happyland" is the heart of the highlands of Glendale. This is the title by which the property is to be known. The two million ($2,000,000) dollars' worth of property will be sold in the tract this year according to the prediction of Lon J. Haddock, president of the Haddock-Nibley Co.

"Thousands of Glendale people and others familiar with this beautiful estate, have been awaiting the opening of this property," says Mr. Haddock, "and while we intend to restrict the same so as to make of it a place of 'Happy homes for happy people,' at the same time, it is not our intention to make it so exclusive that only the rich can make homes on the same. The property is a veritable fairland, and we are going to put it on the market at prices that will enable the people who buy to share in the subsequent profits with us. Tentative reservations are already being made by those who are interested in the project, but it is not expected that the property will be on the market before another two weeks."

Another item that gives added attraction to Rossmoyne, is the fact that the Montrose and Glendale electric car passes immediately in front of the entire property and this is to be connected with the old Salt Lake road, which is shortly to be electrified, and to join the yellow car line near its junction with the San Fernando road. This will not only give much better transportation facilities between Glendale and Los Angeles, but the promise is made that universal transfers will be used throughout Los Angeles, and the fare between the two cities will be reduced at least from one-fourth to one-third. Lots in first units will be in full bearing orange trees.

Small business district to be established on Glendale avenue. Large villa sites will characterize the canyon and hillside property. Scenic road to be constructed into the heart of the hills. Largest realty deal in Glendale. Large force of engineers now staking out lots. Modest restrictions to obtain.

PONY EXPRESS TO BE BORN AGAIN

DENVER, Colo., March 31 (United Press).—Sometime next summer, a pony express rider will leap on his mount in St. Joseph, Mo., and will head west on the first relay of the 2,000 mile trip to San Francisco.

Across the broad plains to Denver and from Denver over the mountains and western deserts, the 1923 pony express rider will follow the dim trail taken by his famous predecessors in the days when there were neither railroads nor wagon trails between "St. Joe" and San Francisco.

Decision to revive the old pony express was made at a recent meeting in Denver of the pony express memorial association. Fifteen delegates from half a dozen western states formed the association and determined to hold the race against time this summer. The last rider will reach San Francisco September 9, according to present plans. It will be a feature of several state celebrations staged in August and September.

At the meeting of the newly-formed association, James D. Phelan, San Francisco, was elected president; John A. Baker, Denver, foster son of Col. Wm. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), who was the first pony express rider, vice-president; Earl Snell, Reno, Nev., manager.

VETERAN OF 80 REFUSED TO PAY ALIMONY

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 30 (United Press).—"Uncle" Dow Davis, 80, member of General Lee's staff and four times married, has taken the spotlight after many years of tranquility on his farm near here.

"Uncle" Dow faced jail for refusing to pay alimony to his fourth wife. Mrs. Davis left her husband recently, alleging "barbarous" treatment.

This Davis sternly denied. Davis was ordered to pay temporary alimony pending outcome of the divorce suit now before the courts. He refused, saying he would go to jail first. He was not sent to jail but his 40-acre farm and home place was sold by the court and the money used for alimony.

Benmar Hills!

Burbank

"The City Beautiful"

Building a CITY as YOU Build a HOME

You have an architect draw up plans. Every detail shows in them—the arrangement of the rooms, the built-in features, the doors, windows, heaters, even the furniture and decorations—are visualized. You plan it minutely.

Precisely that has taken place at Benmar Hills. A city—Burbank, the City Beautiful—has been planned with the utmost care by eminent engineers and landscape architects. Those plans show the location of every street, every public building, every school, every park. They show the exact extent of the commercial district, the industrial district, the residence district.

They show every feature that the sum total of city-building experience has demonstrated should be included in a model community of 100,000 people.

With all the care that you would exercise in preparing your own home, this city is being prepared for you.

The opportunity to secure a site in such a community on which to build your home is one of the great occasions of your life. Be sure that it does not pass unheeded.

Make a preliminary visit today. Drive out San Bernardino Boulevard to the tract office in the western part of Burbank. Our representative will be there all day.

LET WOMEN HELP PLAN THE HOME

Bentley Lumber Co. Think Home Should Have Feminine Touch

"Homes are built to a great extent for women, so why shouldn't they be planned under the direction of women?" asks Donald R. Gillin, service manager of the Bentley Lumber Co., situated at 460 W. Los Feliz road.

"One of our lady clients recently remarked that the favorite in-door pastime of two of her sisters is the planning of future, or dream homes. Whether or not they have real prospects of building or not, it is a pastime that will some day bring a reward."

"It is unfortunate that so few women seriously take up the question of plans for their own homes. Most homes are man planned (by contractors) and that means they are inadequately arranged and equipped for the housewife. It isn't given to the average man or the average contractor to fully appreciate these things."

"Just as soon as there is any prospect of a building, the housewife should get busy—she should be the first one of the job. She should firmly insist that the plans be worked up in detail by a specialist, an architect, preferably by one who specializes on plans of houses of moderate cost."

"Speaking of our own experience we find that many of our best plans are prepared under the advice and criticism of women. The average man hasn't the insight, the time or patience to develop a perfect plan. The woman is fortunate whose husband is willing to delegate the selection of plans to her."

"Contractors have occasion to draw only a few plans a year and then only as a matter of necessity in order to get the jobs. Now that necessity has been largely passed, for the plans of homeplanning experts are incomparably superior, and the moderate cost is invariably saved when the house is done. This is the day of the specialist. The contractor who hasn't architectural training cannot afford to bother with plans. Very often, contractors submit to us some new floor plan to be developed and improved. If advantage is taken of these services, a practical plan is prepared. Usually this is sent back for approval and correction of the future mistress of the home. If the contractor's estimate is satisfactory, the plans are returned to us for final completion."

"The type of contractors who take advantage of these services or advise the purchase of plans made that practically meet requirements are the ones who do the right thing by the owner. In the first place, this creates confidence in the contractor and usually he is favored against mere price competitors. The owner gets a home that meets expectations. The contractor has a standing advertisement and good will that pulls business for many years. The Bentley Lumber Co. is equipped with over 500 beautiful photographic views of the "ideal home." Plans may be had immediately, and there is no charge to customers for plans," concludes Mr. Gillin.

And it sometimes happens that when a man says that he believes a woman that he is merely a polite fabricator.

HENS MENAGED BY DAMP KEPT FLOORS

The construction of the poultry house floor has a decided effect upon the health of fowls. Dampness, particularly, inside of a building, is one of the greatest enemies of health.

Almost every poultry house will be damp unless special precautions are taken. The conditions surrounding the possible location of the house should be carefully looked into before the house is erected. Low damp spots with poor water drainage and slow air circulation should be avoided. The best exposure is southern with protection from the wind on the north; this allows the greatest amount of sunlight to fall on the floor of the house and also protects the fowls from cold.

An earth floor is satisfactory when the poultry building is so located that the floor will naturally keep dry and sanitary. This condition can be secured only when the house is located on a dry, well drained spot. If a dirt floor is used, however, the upper foot should be shoveled out at least once a year, preferably every six months, and replaced with fresh earth. To insure good drainage in times of wet weather, the surface of a dirt floor should be eight or ten inches above the ground level outside.

Board floors are frequently used in poultry houses and when properly laid make a sanitary floor at a reasonable cost. The chief objection to a wooden floor is that it is not always perfectly dry and that rats, mice and other rodents can gnaw through it.

The best floor, although the most expensive, is a concrete one. When properly laid it insures perfect dryness and keeps rodents from digging through; it also can be kept in sanitary condition with little care. The chief objection to a cement floor is that it may be cold and rough on the feet, but this may be overcome by keeping a liberal supply of litter on the floor or by laying a board floor on top of the cement.

The concrete floor should be about six inches higher than the ground level outside. The same is true if a floor is made of stone or brick.

How to Construct
A cement floor may be constructed as follows: The foundation should be laid at least eighteen inches below the ground level, preferably deeper, and should extend at least six inches above the ground. The space enclosed in this area should be filled in with dry sand or ashes, solidly packed down to within six or eight inches of the top. On top of this the layer of concrete should be laid. The upper two inches of this should be faced with a coating of concrete made of two parts sand and one part cement, troweled down very smoothly and worked until the moisture comes to the top. A floor made smooth in this way will do very little injury to the fowls.

In case the poultryman desires to lay a board floor upon the concrete the upper surface need not be worked smooth as just described. Joists two by four inches should be sunk in the concrete while it is fresh until they are level with the top. When the boards are nailed down on these joists a coating of hot tar should be spread on top of the concrete and a layer of tar paper should be put down. Another made of tongued and grooved boards should be nailed close to prevent cracks in the floor.

Forest Are Source of State's Wealth

Few people appreciate the fact that our forests are one of California's chief sources of wealth. They yield an annual return of from 50 to 60 million dollars worth of timber; they give employment to thousands of workmen; they protect the watersheds upon which cities and ranches are dependent for their domestic and irrigation water supply; they furnish forage for thousands of cattle and sheep; they are the natural home of our fast-disappearing wild life; they are the great vacation playgrounds for more than two millions of our citizens.

WHAT WILL YOUR HOME BE LIKE?

What kind of a house are you going to be satisfied with when you build?

Did you ever have a suit that you became so tired of that it got on your nerves—one that you couldn't wear with comfort any longer?

Did you know that the same thing frequently happens with houses—that if they are not well planned sometimes become almost unbearable to their occupants?

One reason that architecture exists, as distinguished from mere building, is to prevent such things from happening—it exists in order that you and I may have dwellings that give us constant joy, rather than as often depress our spirits, in order to provide us with homes that we become attached to and never want to leave.

Do you know that some people's spirits are like barometers—something's got to keep them raised or they'll go down?

Are yours that way? Music will answer for a stimulus with some, with others it is books, but with the majority their home surroundings have a lot to do with it.

Did you ever stop to consider that every vacation in life has a purpose, that otherwise it would go out of use?

Perhaps we all sometimes imagine that certain vocations are superior for us, that by cleverness we can dispense with patronizing them.

Does that of architecture seem like one such to you?

One way to live is in an auto-camp. Have you ever tried it?

For a steady diet I imagine it is not very satisfactory.

Next to that is a mere building. That doesn't answer very well, either.

It affords a place to walk around in, to sleep and eat in, but not one to be very happy in.

It lacks one vital necessity put in this world for happiness, namely, art. Art in combination with building spells architecture.

You can't secure architecture for your home by sticking on a frill here or a doodad there.

One sees such attempts occasionally and they are pathetic.

Architecture is a quality that must be interwoven into the very structure of a building, into its plan and design.

This is no task for an amateur. To do it well requires not only native talent, but years of training and application.

The way it can best be done varies with every problem. An almost infinitude of architectural combinations form the mental stock in trade of the man who is thus equipped.

He has traveled widely or studied extensively in order to acquire the necessary vocabulary. His mind has become a kaleidoscope of architectural ideas, so that at each new turn of the domestic conditions of a home builder he knows what combination will best unlock the secrets of convenience and beauty to fit the case.

Practical he must be. Beauty must walk hand in hand with convenience. They must dovetail together, each giving opportunity for, or expression to the other.

To accomplish this requires thought and also necessitates much handwork.

Draftsmen must be employed, trained to portray graphically and with accuracy of figure and detail the accumulated results of such thought so that later they will blossom forth in enduring materials as the realization of the owner's wants and dreams.

So is it a mere building that you will be satisfied with, or will you demand one that has had your ideas woven into its fabric by an artist who read your wishes aright and interpreted them with accuracy of touch in terms of convenience and beauty?

HUGE DOPE TRADE SINCE END OF WAR

By F. WILLIAM BUSCH (United Press Correspondent)

VIENNA (By mail to United Press).—Recent arrests and convictions of dope peddlers here have disclosed the extent to which the use of cocaine, heroin and morphine has grown since the close of the war.

Testimony introduced by the state during these trials showed that ninety per cent of the drug stores in the city carry on an illicit trade in dope and that they are backed by a large percentage of the medical profession, who issue prescriptions to anyone asking for one.

Auntie had come to stay, and little Mary, with some pride, was showing a jumper she had knitted herself. "And did my little niece make this all by herself?" asked Auntie. "Nearly, auntie, all but the hole you put your head through, and that was where I started."

FARM MORTGAGES TOTAL VAST AMOUNT

More than one-tenth of the value of all farm lands and farm buildings of the country is owed on mortgage debt. In the first compilation of its kind ever made, the Census Bureau and the Department of Agriculture jointly estimates the mortgage farm debt of the United States at $7,857,700,000 on January 1, 1920. The value of all farm lands and buildings at that time was $66,316,902,602.

Iowa, premier farming state of the country, had mortgage debts on its farms aggregating almost one-seventh of the country's total.

CHOOSE EGGS FOR HATCHING WITH CARE

By SETH W. SHOEMAKER
Director The School of Agriculture, International Correspondence Schools, Scranton, Pa.

At times there is considerable discussion as to improving the size, shape and color of hens' eggs, but very few poultrymen make any effort in this direction.

The time to try is when the eggs are being selected for hatching. Improvement may not be so pronounced the first year as marked results can not come from a single selection. To be successful on a considerable scale, the selection must be continued year after year.

Eggs for incubation should come from a variety of hen that has health and vitality to a marked degree. The best results are obtained from eggs selected during the hen's second or third year of laying.

In selecting eggs it should be remembered that the size of offspring is influenced more by the female than by the male. That is, small hens usually lay small eggs that produce small fowl and large eggs usually come from large fowls and normally produce large offspring.

Of course, exceptions can be found. The shape is a matter of importance. Eggs should be chosen that are of regular shape and of good average size rather than too large or too small for their kind. Freaks should always be avoided.

Color is an essential characteristic of eggs. Especial care should be given to seeing that the color is both uniform and clear and that the shell has a good, smooth finish. When it is desired to produce pullets that lay eggs with brown shells eggs should be selected for incubation that have a shade of the color preferred, and this shade should be uniform throughout the shell.

Eggs that are hatched from eggs which are not uniform in color are apt to lay eggs with shells uneven in color.

Uniform Color
The appearance of white shelled eggs is materially improved by a careful selection of only pure white shelled eggs for incubation. Frequent examples of uneven color in eggs are found in flocks of Leghorns. Some members of a flock will lay eggs of pure white shells, while others of the same flock will produce eggs that have a cream or straw tint. Any of these tints may be thoroughly established within a few years if eggs that have only the desired tints are used for hatching. This production of pure white shelled eggs can be established only by carefully selecting eggs at hatching time.

PAINT IS A GOOD PRESERVER OF WOOD

There is no doubt whatsoever but that good paint applied to buildings will add to their value.

Paint is a good paying investment. A well-painted house will carry a lower insurance rate than an unpainted building.

Paint will increase the loan value of a structure.

Paint is applied to a thousand and one articles and its use is as varied.

Paint is used to preserve and beautify.

Not long ago my attention was directed to an old crossroads sign that was put up about 75 years ago.

The sign had been lettered with white paint. Originally the sign-board had been a full inch in thickness.

It was interesting to note that the board had decayed or weathered away until it was half its original thickness, yet the letters stood out in bold relief as though they were carved and stood out nearly half an inch from the board.

Some of the paint clung to the letters.

The reason for the letters being so permanent is obvious. The white paint preserved the wood under the letters, the board had never been painted.

The paint manufacturing business has advanced tremendously during the last 75 years.

Good paint today is a far better preservative than any paint applied 75 years ago.

There are people who maintain that paint manufactured these days is not as good as it used to be.

What they should maintain is that the paint they have had experience with was not first class painting material and they applied or bought a second grade article, thinking that paint was paint, or paint is paint, regardless of price.

It's a fact that 50 years ago painting materials were limited and cheap paint was unknown. Inferior or second grade paint is made to supply a demand and "A fool and his money soon part."

From a manufacturing standpoint there is seemingly a substantial profit in marketing cheap paints of all kinds.

However, it is noted that a manufacturer who confines his work along these lines always comes out, in the long run, a loser.

Large business establishments of any character never enlarged or built up a business on inferior merchandise.

Paint manufacturers, dealers or any paint merchant who wants your future business, interests his customer in good paint.

He can build a business on quality; it pays him and the customer.

But it doesn't rain very hard on the unjust if he is roosting under a stolen umbrella.

INDIANS KILL DEER AND ARE FINED

John Jordan Jr. and Sylvester Simmons, two Indians of the Paskenta region, were recently arrested by officers of the California National Forest for killing a doe each in the Lake Hollow region. Both defendants pleaded guilty in the court of Judge Lee at Paskenta and were fined $50 each. The deer meat seized was turned over by the forest rangers to the county hospital at Red Bluff.

LANDSCAPE PLAN FOR HOME IS IMPORTANT

Just as no house interior is complete without its furnishings, so no exterior is complete without its proper landscape setting.

This does not mean that a lawn and a few shrubs planted around a house are all that is required.

It means that landscaping is an art in itself and should be considered as such.

It might be divided into two departments, that which has to do with the planning of grounds and that which has to do with the care of growing things.

It is generally supposed that one who knows considerable about the latter must also be well posted regarding the former, but such is by no means the case.

In fact, just the contrary is apt to take place, namely one who knows how to grow plants is often weak on the planning end, while he who is strong on planning is frequently impatient of the detail of growing.

I will not attempt to lay down any rules for proper landscaping, as I have said, it is an art in itself.

There are, however, some general principles that are so often neglected that to mention them here may be helpful, especially to those whose grounds are of comparatively small dimensions.

First, then, try to cover up all the ugly lines of both the house and surroundings as much as possible, allowing the strong or graceful lines to show.

Secondly, consider that part of your yard which is away from the street, and where you intend to live out-of-doors, as a picture.

Frame it in all around the margins with shrubbery.

Obtain privacy for yourself in this way:

Keep the center of the open space so made free from any large shrubs.

Around the edges of the open space mass your flowers, distributing them below and immediately in front of the shrubbery.

A treatment similar to this was adopted with great success at the San Diego Exposition, where the bases of the buildings were fringed with shrubbery and a border of flowers was grown in front of that.

The idea of thus hiding the base

MILK GOAT IDEAL FOR THE HOME

By CHARLES WEEKS

The milk goat has given nourishment to the human race from the beginning of history.

This well known animal ranked with the cattle, camels and sheep as the chief wealth of the Israelites in their pastoral days.

Its flesh, with the exception of the fat, was eaten.

A kid of the goats was, in a warm country, a quickly prepared article of food.

Goats' milk was largely consumed in the household. "And thou shalt have goats' milk enough for thy food, for the food of thy household, and for the maintenance of thy maidens." (Proverbs 27:27.)

In the European countries the goat has a place on every little farm. Switzerland is noted for its Swiss cheese.

The peasantry of Europe would starve without their goats and rabbits.

America has been slow to take up the thrifty and frugal habits of the old country people.

Only in the last few years have the Toggenburgs, Saanens and Nubians been brought across the ocean to our country.

As an economical "family cow," of a building is almost always desirable, the line so formed seems generally to require some such treatment.

If your place is one of any size do not attempt to do the landscaping yourself. As I have said, it is an art in itself, therefore, in such a case consult a competent landscape architect, one who makes a specialty of that kind of work.

People who talk too much receive little attention.

The bee is never too busy to administer a stinging rebuke.

It is part of the ideal plan to stock this colony with the best pure bred stock possible, so that the community as a whole can work together in the breeding problem.

In the old country, the Isle of Guernsey has become famous as the center for producing the best Guernsey cattle.

The Isle of Jersey has perfected the Jersey cow. The Holstein cow has become famous through the efforts of the many little farmers in the Netherlands.

We are just beginning to learn in this country the value of community organization and co-operation in the breeding of choice stock.

On the intensive little farms it is possible to keep only the very best of everything and have at the head the best blood to be had.

People who talk too much receive little attention.

Beautiful Bellehurst Park Quality!

The electrifying success of Beautiful Bellehurst Park.

Over $600,000 in purchases by delighted buyers within two weeks and two days of our first announcement in the Los Angeles papers.

This means only one thing—QUALITY.

Real Estate Advertisements Sound Much Alike

But when you find a piece of property that WINS buyers by the HUNDREDS in a fortnight's time, that is just melting away under the onslaught of these eager throngs, that is today the outstanding real estate success of all Southern California—then you can bank on it there is SOMETHING THERE—QUALITY.

These printed words are what some salesmen may say are NOTHING compared to the QUALITY of enchanting beauty that visitors really feel when they stand on this two-hundred-acre old estate and wander about among its lovely old palms, magnolias and spreading oaks, its groves of orange and olive trees.

That's the reason they buy—they find QUALITY.

Nor can words convey the sense of splendid upbuilding and growth of Glendale—this wonder city of forty thousand—its clean, pleasant streets, hundreds of fine buildings sprouting everywhere. You'll like it. It has QUALITY.

And when you stand in Bellehurst Park you see that it is not "out somewhere." It is right in the heart of the city, beautiful avenues solidly built up with homes come right to the property line. Schools, churches, car lines, business centers, are all near and convenient. It has the quality of being cozy and close in, there is nothing like it—that's why they buy.

And when right on the ground you see miles of paved avenues being rushed, the high character of these improvements free to purchasers, the high character of our very carefully worked out restrictions, based on twenty years' experience in developing one thousand acres of the beautiful hill parks of Piedmont and Oakland, you will realize that the natural QUALITY of this beautiful spot will be preserved and enhanced.

It is this marvelous QUALITY that is selling Bellehurst Park with such sensational rapidity. This is almost the last call for Bellehurst Park.

Before nightfall over three-quarters of this property will have been sold. Be sure and come today while there is yet time to get a choice selection.
